Reduction in Water Rates Declared Unlikely

ATLANTA UNABLE TO SPARE MONEY, STATES BACHMAN

If Revenue Exceeds Expectations, Excess Should Go to Schools, He Believes.

NAME SUBCOMMITTEE TO STUDY SITUATION

Delegations, Representing Large Producers, Declare Present Rates Much Too High.

Reduction of water rates this year was declared highly improbable by members of the finance committee following an executive session Monday afternoon, at which the question was referred for "further study" to a subcommittee composed of Aldermen J. R. Bachman, finance chairman; I. N. Ragdale, waterworks chairman, and City Controller B. Graham West.

Delegations representing large producers of water were heard before the committee when they were asked to make a statement of the present rates, which represent a graduated increase 50 to 100 per cent higher than last year's rates. They stated that rates in other cities of size comparable to Atlanta's to substantiate the claim that local rates are too high.

Bachman's Position.
Alderman Bachman told each protesting consumer that the increase was made to provide funds for necessary municipal expenses. He told them that no cut in water rates could be made unless expenses also were cut. He asked each protestant to suggest some way in which the city's expenses could be cut. No specific suggestions for economy were offered.

Several members of the finance committee were quoted as being willing to cut out all public improvements planned for the year in order to make a reduction of $150,000 in the total revenue needed from the water department. Other members of the committee expressed doubt that the sacrifice of all public improvements could afford any material relief if applied to water rates.

Will Study Situation.
The subcommittee was instructed to make a thorough study of water rates during the last two months to learn whether the present rate might produce greater revenue than had been anticipated when the rate was adopted by council. If any excess is probable, members of the committee said, the rate might be adjusted downward to return this amount to the consumers.

The subcommittee was instructed

11 REBEL CHIEFS PAY DEATH PRICE FOR HUERTA MOVE

Mexico City, April 14.—Three rebel generals, three colonels, four lieutenant-colonels and one major have been tried by drum-head court-martial and executed at Ciudad Victoria, state of Tamaulipas, according to information received today from General Rafael Moreno, commander of the Ciudad Victoria garrison.

The generals executed were Mario Rendón, Alfredo Saucedo and Severo Reza.

The generals and the other officers put to death were captured last Friday at Xicotencatl when federal forces defeated the rebels under command of General Antonio Villareal, who, with General Manuel Larraga, is still at large.

STRUCK BY TRAIN, WATCHMAN DIES

Four Hurt in Auto Accidents—Fireman Fleming Badly Injured in Fall Off Ladder.

R. F. Clark, of 405 Atlanta avenue, 75-year-old railroad watchman, died at the Atlanta hospital at 11:30 o'clock Monday night as the result of injuries suffered when struck by a Southern train at 2 o'clock during the afternoon while he was on duty at the Fair street crossing. Death resulted from a fractured skull, internal injuries and numerous bruises and cuts.

The victim was struck by what is known as a "dead" train on which Charlie Rogers, a hostler, was acting as engineer. The train leaves Atlanta at 2:30 o'clock daily for Chattanooga, and Rogers was running the empty train to the shed at the time of the accident.

According to the story told by Rogers, Clark was standing on the tracks with his "stop" signal. He evidently had seen the approaching train and stepped from the tracks, only to run forward when he saw an automobile start over the crossing. It is thought that he was attempting to warn the auto driver of the oncoming train, and became confused.

Woman, Daughter Hurt.
Mrs. J. Laraway and her two-year-old daughter, Marion Frances, whose addresses are given as the Oliver hotel, were slightly injured early Monday night when struck by an automobile as they were crossing Peachtree street near the Piedmont hotel.

Police were told that they crossed in front of a standing street car and that the automobile was passing on the other side of the car. Fortunately the machine was going at a slow rate of speed, and although both Mrs. Laraway and her daughter were knocked to the pavement, neither was seriously injured. The automobile driver was absolved from blame, as a traffic officer had given him the signal to

COOLIDGE APPEALS TO WOMEN TO USE BALLOT THIS FALL

Speaking to D. A. R., President Says National Policy Determined by Women as Well as Men.

URGES PRESERVATION OF FUNDAMENTALS

No Direct Reference Made to Recent Clashes Between Legislative and Executive Departments.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Washington, April 14.—An appeal to the women of America to exercise fully their newly gained right of suffrage in the November national elections was made by President Coolidge in an address tonight before the Thirty-third Continental Congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The president combined with this appeal a warning against departure from the American system of government, providing for coordinate legislative, executive and judicial authority and for government by the majority. He made no direct reference, however, to the recent clashes between the executive and legislative departments nor did he mention specifically recent combinations of the democratic minority with insurgent republicans to override the republican majority in congress.

The American people, the president declared, may well be summoned "to the preservation, the guardianship, and the gradual perfection of this system" of government, which assures the people "equality against the tyranny of any despotic executive and the tyranny of any despotic legislature."

Face Difficult Phase.
"Popular government is facing one of the difficult phases of the period of trial to which it always has been and always will be subjected," he said. "It needs the support of

Hotel Bill Due, Princess Seeks Poison Refuge

Glamour of Hawaiian Ancestry Fails To Bring Her Ready Money.

Princess Eli Elima, for one time in her life, has been unable to exploit the glamour of Hawaiian ancestry, and as a result is now in Grady hospital.

Monday morning she found herself in dire need of $14, with no way of getting it. The money was needed to meet the demands of an insistent hotel manager, who held that the bill already was long overdue.

Since the fall of the Hawaiian dynasty, all those who claim to be descendants of this family have been denied the ease and splendor of court life. So when Eli Elima drifted into a downtown hotel some ten days or so ago, it was soon learned that she was willing to sing and dance for a consideration.

Since that time she has appeared before one local organization, had another engagement for Monday, as well as others later in the week, she says. But since clothes were important in her work she bought them first, and had no money left, she claims, to meet the hotel bill by noon Monday, which was the last day of grace given her.

Discouraged she attempted suicide by taking 50 grains of veronal and one grain of bichloride. The combination proved ineffective and therefore the plan went astray. She is to live and dance again if she cares to. But Eli Elima is still worried over her hotel bill.

Attempt To Ram RumChaser Fails; One Slain, 3 Held

One Rumrunner Says He Plays Second Gravedigger in Hamlet.

New York, April 14.—Clyde E. Cowell, a Long Beach business man now posthumously believed to have been identified as a ranking member of the rum-runners' peerage, is dead, his three assistants in an alleged effort to land 40 cases of liquor from boats outside the 12-mile limit, are under arrest, following a battle with revenue inspectors.

Cecil Covelley, one of the three prisoners, told officers that previous to becoming a rum-runner he had been the second gravedigger in John Barrymore's "Hamlet."

John Lawson, George Franklin and Covelley were arrested following their attempt to ram a patrol boat bearing the revenue inspectors, who had ordered the booze boat to lay to for search.

As the contraband carrier bore down on the patrolling vessel, the officers fired. A bullet struck Cowell in the abdomen. His companions immediately surrendered. Cowell died in Mineola hospital. Officials believe he was a local bootlegging mogul for whom they had been searching for several weeks. Cowell's three companions will be questioned regarding the dead man's liquor connections.

GERMANY ACCEPTS REPARATION PLAN

Belgian Cabinet Expresses Satisfaction With Proposal—England Has No Objections.

BY FERDINAND JAHN.
Berlin, April 14.—Germany has definitely accepted the experts' report in principle and within 24 hours the cabinet will frame its answer to the allies to this effect.

The announcement of acceptance was made by the German foreign office at the end of an all-day session of the state premiers, who assembled at an early hour, and finished their discussions in the evening.

The premiers agreed that the government's attitude in accepting the report in principle constituted the only advisable course. The government, however, expects that it will be able to discuss the fixing of the total sum Germany must pay and similar details when German representatives go to Paris. Acceptance "in principle" covers these points.

It is learned that the government intends to urge the reparations commission to assure the promised loan of 800,000,000 gold marks for the first year's payment in kind.

Shortly before the close of the session Premier Von Knilling, of Bavaria, raised belated objections on certain features of the report, and it was understood that these objections would be discussed at a cabinet meeting Tuesday, thus deferring announcement of the decisions. The Bavarian objections were disposed of at Monday's meeting, however, and definite acceptance was decided upon.

Party leaders were informed of the decision during the evening.

BONUS BILL TAKES PRECEDENCE OVER REVENUE MEASURE

Reported to the Floor Today and Will Be Considered Before End of This Week.

PASSAGE NEXT WEEK PREDICTED BY SMOOT

Senator Simmons, Democrat, Will Attempt To Insert Provision for Cash Option.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Washington, April 14.—The soldier bonus bill won the right of way over the tax measure in the senate by vote today of the finance committee and will be brought up for consideration before the end of the week.

Senator Jones, democrat, New Mexico, joined republicans in approving such a program, while other democrats did not vote. Chairman Smoot said.

Senator Curtis, Kansas, a republican member of the committee, will report the bill formally to the senate tomorrow and there were indications to-night that the legislative calendar would be cleared for it by Wednesday or Thursday.

Passage of the bonus bill has been freely predicted even by opponents, and Chairman Smoot expressed the opinion today that it would be disposed of by early next week. The revenue bill, he said, would be taken up immediately thereafter.

The main fight on the bonus measure will be on the proposal of Senator Simmons, North Carolina, ranking majority member of the finance committee, to incorporate an option for full cash payments. The bill as agreed to by the finance committee is practically the same as approved by the house, and its passage in this form would be assured speedy report from conference to the president.

The bill provides for 20-year endowment life insurance policies and cash payments to veterans not entitled to more than $50 in adjusted service compensation. Some republican leaders have indicated the belief that in this form it would pass both houses over the veto of President Coolidge, who has declared opposition to a soldier bonus.

Democrats of the committee indicated today that no determined effort would be made to upset the program for consideration of the bonus bill ahead of the tax measure.

TEXTBOOK PRICES CALLED EXCESSIVE

Non-Resident Book Combines Are Getting $500,000 Too Much Each Year, Says Haden.

Excessive prices charged for school books are imposing an immense burden and an unnecessary one, on the people of Georgia, said Charles J. Haden Monday night in addressing a joint committee of representatives of 50 Atlanta churches at St. Luke's church.

Non-resident book combines, he declared, cost the state of Georgia $4,000,000 more than if the books were printed in the state of Georgia.

"Already the cost of books for our public schools," said Mr. Haden, "under the state system, from the first to the seventh grades, amounts to $20.74 per child. Notice has been served by the book monopolies that prices will be raised considerably beginning with the next school year."

BORAH, LONGWORTH AND WILLIS NAMED TO WIELD GAVEL

Washington, April 14.—Consideration is being given by President Coolidge and his political advisers to the organization of the Cleveland convention.

He discussed with Chairman John T. Adams, of the republican national committee Monday, the matter of temporary chairman. The names of Senator Borah, Senator Willis, of Ohio, and Representative Longworth, of Ohio, were mentioned. Former Governor Lowden, of Illinois was named also, but the fact that he became involved in the recent factional fight in Illinois and was on the losing side militates against him. No decision was reached.

HARRY THAW GOES ON SANITY TRIAL

Attorneys for His Estate, Opposing Release, Drag Forth Sordid Details of Past Life.

Philadelphia, April 14.—Harry Thaw, imperturbable, save for the rapidly blinking lids of his slightly protruding eyes, sat in court Monday, as the trial to determine his sanity opened and heard attorneys for his estate, who are opposing his release, drag from the past all the filth and horror of nearly a score of years since he shot down Stanford White that hot June night on Madison Square roof.

Beside Thaw sat his aged mother, swathed in deep mourning. The fight for Thaw's release, to which she finally has publicly loaned her support, opened before Justice Monaghan in the court of common pleas. After the jury had been rapidly chosen in the morning, the remainder of the day was occupied with the examination of a single witness, Dr. Charles U. Mills, octogenarian alienist, who has declared Thaw sane on numerous occasions.

"Harry Thaw is, in my opinion, a sane man," Mills declared, and stuck to this throughout strenuous hours of cross-examination by Arthur Dixon, counsel for the committee of the Thaw estate, which is one of the two parties opposing release.

Losses First Round.
The other party is Evelyn Nesbit. Thaw's former wife, now divorced and estranged, who entered the case at the last moment. Evelyn moved to frustrate plans for obtaining Thaw's freedom on the ground that he is the father of her child, Russell, 13, and would squander the fortune she hopes will some day go to the boy, if Thaw were released. Thaw lost the first round of his legal fight when the court rejected his petition to bar his ex-wife as a co-litigant.

Evelyn, who is now part proprietor of an Atlantic City cabaret, came to Philadelphia Monday to appear in court, but her counsel until Tuesday.

William Gray, her attorney, assisted Dixon in cross-examination of the first witness introduced in Thaw's behalf. It was a sordid story of his shortcomings, to which Thaw was forced to listen, but it left him apparently unaffected, save for heavy perspiration that wilted his high linen collar.

There was something leonine about the appearance of Stanford White's slayer as he sat in the front row of the crowded benches. His expression was that of a caged beast, once all-powerful, who tried his bars and found them unyielding, and now lies with a

CONGRESS SLAPS COOLIDGE AGAIN AND FUELS FEUD

Senate Action on Jap Exclusion and Soldier Bonus Is Body Blow to Presidential Plans.

DETERMINED FIGHT ON HENRY LAID OUT

Firm Foundation Already Laid for Factional Warfare Inside Republican Party.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.
Washington, April 14.—New grievances have been added to the feud between congress and the white house by the support which the senate has just given to Japanese exclusion and the soldier bonus—both regarded coldly by the president.

The significance of this is that it precipitates an eruption within the administration forces, the president's own lieutenants in the senate have broken away from the white house in both instances.

Whether Coolidge will come openly to the support of Secretary of State Hughes in the matter of barring Japanese immigrants under the immigration bill is uncertain. There are various considerations which must be weighed. Hughes has made a vigorous protest and it has had no effect on congress.

Lodge Desertion Hurt.

There is no reason to believe that a protest by Coolidge would be more effective, unless he should base it upon very grave premises. In addition he would alienate much friendly sentiment on the Pacific coast—a matter which is of considerable importance in the present political situation. It was a matter of keen disappointment to the president that Lodge deserted him on the Japanese issue.

As to the soldier bonus, the decision of the senate finance committee to push this measure ahead of the tax bill is a distinct blow to the administration.

Young and Old Suffer Attack Of Opera Fever

Bori Will Be Here Soon To Chase Fleeting Aria to Its Lair.

BY PAUL WARWICK.
That one word of three short syllables, "opera," which is by way of being the plural form of the Latin word "opus," meaning "a work," is as essential a part of every Atlanta vocabulary.

Chief reason for the sudden advent of the word's popularity is found in the fact that the 1924 season of Metropolitan grand opera is just about to begin. In fact, the first night Monday night when "Marta" will afford a brilliant audience its first night of glorious entertainment.

The Universal Password.
Everything is opera—and righteously enough. The advertisements of the opera society exudes it. Lay news constantly slides over into it. Shop windows proclaim it. Women talk about it. Men guess at it. Musicians think it. Small boys desire to become libretto salesmen. Larger boys feel the ushering urge. College boys feel a call to "fete" spears and wear cast iron costumes.

Bifurcated individuals who shave and like to appear quite virile start their annual Munchausen.

JAPANESE THREAT ROUSES SENATE TO SHOW OF ANGER

Effort of Mikado's Ambassador To Influence U. S. Congress Solidifies Anti-Jap Sentiment.

GENTLEMEN'S PACT THROWN OUT, 76 TO 2

Temper of Legislators Indicates Easy Passage for Definite Exclusion Clause in Alien Bill.

BY THOMAS L. STOKES.
Washington, April 14.—The senate, roused to fever heat over the effort of Ambassador Hanabara, of Japan, to influence immigration legislation, has voted to abolish the "gentlemen's agreement" which has been in force since 1907, and is expected to insert a provision in the immigration bill which will exclude Japanese by law.

Under the "gentlemen's agreement" Japan was allowed to carry out exclusion in Japan, without any interference by this country. The portion of the new immigration bill providing continuance of the "gentlemen's agreement" was defeated by the senate Monday afternoon by a vote of 76 to 2, at the end of a succession of heated protests against the action of the Japanese ambassador, which was characterized as a "veiled threat" by Senator Lodge, republican leader, and Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, a member of the immigration committee, and bitterly assailed by other senators.

Make Exclusion Definite.

The senate now has before it an amendment offered by Senator Shortridge, of California, which would definitely exclude Japanese by law. From the sentiment expressed on the floor Monday, it appears likely that this amendment or a similar one will be included in the senate measure. Such a provision is contained in the house bill.

The action Monday was taken in the face of the express wish of Secretary of State Hughes that the "gentlemen's agreement" be continued. Hughes called at the White House late Monday afternoon as the movement in the senate gained strength to confer with President Coolidge.

In Executive Session.
When the provision in the bill providing continuance of the agreement was reached Monday, Senator Lodge asked that the senate go into executive session. There he made an effort to have consideration of the section and a vote taken behind closed doors. He was defeated and when open session was resumed, Senator Shortridge opened the debate, urging acceptance of his amendment.

In the debate which followed, frequently indignant, with many heated outbursts, one senator after another protested that continuation of the "gentlemen's agreement," after the latest of the Japanese ambassador, would threaten the sovereignty of the United States. No nation could be allowed, it was declared several times, to try to shape legislation in the United States, to tell this country

Would you send a salesman to see a client late in the afternoon, providing he could go during the morning hours?

Are you, yourself, in a buying mood late in the afternoon— isn't it a poor time to strike you?

Would you send a house-to-house demonstrator along about the shank of the day to talk to the women of the households in Atlanta? If such a demonstrator got his foot in the crack of the door he would be in luck.

After a woman has struggled all day long with household affairs she is entitled to a rest—and she takes it.

Why make it hard on your advertising? Why expect it to do something that is contrary to general rules of life?

whom it should admit and whom it should keep out.

Sterling Defends Japs.

Senator Sterling, republican, of South Dakota, alone raised his voice against the general sentiment expressed, declaring that he could not "construe anything the Japanese ambassador has said as being a 'veiled threat' or as pointing toward war between the two countries."

"If we are going to exclude the Japanese let's go ahead and exclude them," he said, "but let us not use the letter of the Japanese ambassador as a pretext."

Letter Opened Breach.

Senator Pepper, of Pennsylvania, declared that Japan had broken the agreement by her own action, through the letter of the Japanese ambassador, and Senator Dill, of Washington, said that the letter had brought the issue directly to the senate, and it should be definitely settled now.

He took the position that continuation of the "gentleman's agreement," which Hanihara said brought only 146 Japanese into the country in a year, opened the door for a fixed policy of admitting Japanese despite the small number which the ambassador said entered under its provisions.

Senator Shortridge, beginning debate when the doors were thrown open after the executive session, said that Japan had "insolently and imperiously" demanded that America surrender her sovereignty in a domestic matter.

Lodge Joins Debate.

Senator Lodge, who followed him, declared that he had always been "very friendly" to the Japanese people.

"I have tried to do everything in my power to promote good relations between their country and ours," he said.

"I think that may be said to have been shown in the negotiation of the treaties of the Washington conference. I had intended to do all in my power to make the legislation in the present bill as easy for them and for their feelings as possible."

"But, the question of immigration—and I am only about to repeat what has often been said—is perhaps the most serious of fundamental, sovereign rights. If a country cannot say who shall come into the country, it has ceased to be a sovereign country; it has become a subject country."

Sen. Shortridge, in his letter addressed to our state department by the ambassador from Japan seems to me a letter improper to be addressed by the representative of one great country to another friendly country. It contains, I regret to say, a veiled threat.

"The United States cannot legislate by the exercise of any other country of veiled threats. Owing to this, what we are now doing, therefore, assumes the character of an international precedent, and I think it should be understood by the whole world that the United States alone is to say who shall come into the United States to form part of its citizenship."

"What our country determines as to its immigration is neither a just cause of offense nor a subject of threat of war. It is an undoubted sovereign right and nothing else."

Vote on Exclusion Today.

Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, reiterating Lodge's statement that the letter contained a "veiled threat," declared that the action of the Japanese ambassador "means the waste of 20 years of excellent diplomacy, it means the waste of all that came out of the arms conference."

A vote is expected to be taken Tuesday on the amendment by Shortridge.

Republicans, in a party conference Monday, decided to vote for 1 per cent quota on the basis of the 1910 census as a substitute for the 1890 census basis in the Resident Alien bill. The general legislation was considered at the conference Monday before the Japanese section was taken up on the floor.

tration. The president had hoped that the tax bill would take precedence and that it would consume most of the time before the national convention, preventing action on the bonus. Now he cannot get a tax bill through until the bonus is out of the way—a situation which will cause him much embarrassment.

Plan Determined Fight.

Added to these internal party troubles is the fight over the investigation of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon. The president held a conference with Mellon and Senator Watson, the chief defender of the secretary of the treasury, Monday.

Plans were laid for a determined fight against the Jones resolution to employ Francis J. Heney of San Francisco, as special counsel for the Internal Revenue bureau. Although Coolidge, in his message to the senate, opposed the selection of Heney because it was to be financed by Senator Couzens personally, there is reason to believe that the administration does not want Heney to be employed even if he is paid out of government funds in the regular way.

The administration wants the senate investigations to stop. Heney's record as an aggressive prosecutor is well known and it is felt in administration quarters that he would attempt to make another sensation out of the treasury investigation.

Dry Enforcement Weak.

The weakness of prohibition enforcement is well known and admitted. The administration defends the prohibition enforcement bureau by stating that it has done the best it could under the circumstances. But at the same time there is so much that might be exposed that a skillful prosecutor could build up a case which would be bound to have an effect in the coming campaign. The evidence on which the indictment of Representative Langer, of Kentucky, was based only scratches the surface, if current gossip has any foundation.

G. O. P. Faces Chaos.

Republican forces seem caught in the swirl of conflicting forces which defy all coordination. All realize that the foundations for serious internal trouble are being laid by such difficulties as have just arisen over the bonus and the Japanese question. Yet they seem powerless to deal with the situation. The terrific pull of the soldier bonus and Japanese exclusion upon senators and congressmen about to face election campaigns is too great to be overcome by the counterpull of Hughes—who fears grave international consequences over the Japanese question—and by the unshakable conviction of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon that a soldier bonus would be harmful to the economic well-being of the country.

BULK OF YORK ESTATE LEFT TO HIS WIDOW

The will of Lucian York, for 27 years manager of M. Rich & Bros. Co., who died last Thursday, was filed for probate in Fulton county court of ordinary Monday.

The bulk of an estate valued at approximately $50,000 goes to the widow, Mrs. Stella York, direction being given for certain bequests to charitable institutions in which Mr. York was greatly interested.

His elaborate collection of theatrical photographs, papers and books was bequeathed to Atlanta Lodge No. 78 of Elks, of which Mr. York had been a member for years. The will left $500 to the Working Girls' home and $1,000 to the Hebrew Orphans' home.

The will provides a legacy of $500 to aid in the education of Sarah Boykin, and a trust fund of $1,000 for Warren York, to be held until he becomes 21 years old. The merchant's watch was bequeathed to Theodore Awtry, his nephew. The balance of the estate, including household furnishings, was left to Mrs. York.

Walter H. Rich and David H. Strauss were named executors of the will and trustees of the estate. Mr. York executed the will April 7, 1920. It was filed for probate by the law firm of Underwood, Pomeroy & Haas.

NEGRO TEACHERS PLAN SAVANNAH CONVENTION

Savannah, Ga., April 14.—(Special.)—At the same time the Georgia Education association holds its annual meeting in Savannah, May 1 to 3, more than 200 members of the Georgia State Teachers' and Education association, a negro teachers' body, will meet here. The president, C. C. Wiley, has prepared a program for the meeting.

Speakers will include A. G. Cleaves, land, president of the Georgia Education association; Walter B. Hill, special supervisor; Superintendent R. B. DOCTORS BATTLE
FOR NURSE'S LIFE

Athens, Ga., April 14.—(Special.) Death has already claimed a second victim in the fatal dive of the St. Mary's hospital emergency automobile, which Thursday night crashed through a wooden bridge near here, and doctors at the hospital tonight still battled to save the life of Miss Nellie Eberhardt, a nurse, Dr. J. P. Proctor, one of the trio in the car, died Sunday night and will be buried Tuesday. Miss Irene Day, a student nurse, was dead when taken from the wreckage.

The occupants of the automobile were answering a rush call to operate on a patient at Jackson, when Dr. Proctor, driver of the death car, is said to have lost control of the machine, which crashed through the bridge to the tracks of the Seaboard railroad, 30 feet below.

Funeral services for Dr. Proctor will be held from the First Baptist church Tuesday afternoon and interment will be at Oconee cemetery. Mr. Vernon Lodge Masons, will be active pallbearers and Knights Templar will have charge of the service at the grave.

Services were held for Miss Day Sunday afternoon and interment followed at Oconee cemetery.

Miss Eberhardt was still in a semi-conscious condition late tonight and hovered between life and death. Dr. H. M. Fullilove, who operated at St. Mary's hospital with Dr. Proctor, stated.

LAUNCH CAMPAIGN
TO STABILIZE EGG
MARKET OF STATE

Rapid development in Georgia of the poultry industry during the past few years has created a condition which is costing farmers of the state $500,000 annually because many of the eggs produced do not measure up to market requirements, says the Georgia Poultry association, in announcing Monday that a campaign to stabilize and safeguard the egg market in the state will be launched at once.

Other conditions causing loss to the poultry farmers of the state include lack of adequate cooperation in production, storage, grading and sales facilities, says the association. It also is necessary, it is asserted, to impress upon poultry men the necessity of producing infertile eggs and, with this particular object in view, the association has chosen as a slogan for its campaign "Pen that rooster."

The campaign will be conducted in all counties that are members of the association, and it is hoped to bring about the establishment of cooperative poultry association and the creation of adequate storage and marketing facilities. Full cooperation to make the movement a success has been tendered to the association by the state department of agriculture, the state agricultural college, and local poultry associations in all counties coming within the scope of the campaign.

Cotton Manufacturers
Of Georgia in Annual Meeting Here May 13

The Cotton Manufacturers' Association of Georgia will hold its annual meeting at East Lake Country club Tuesday, May 13.

This meeting will be somewhat different from previous meetings in that officers and many prominent men of all the southern states' associations have been invited to attend. Among those expected are Captain Ellison Smythe, of Greenville, S. C.; W. E.

Victims of Accident in Death-Dive

Reading from left to right in the above picture are Miss Nellie Eberhardt, nurse, for whose life Athens doctors are waging a fight, and Dr. J. P. Proctor of St. Mary's hospital, and Miss Irene Day, student nurse, both of whom have died from injuries received when an automobile, which they were driving in answer to an emergency call, plunged from a wooden bridge near here last Thursday night. Miss Day was killed outright and Dr. Proctor died Sunday. The trio were members of St. Mary's staff.

Beattie, president of the American Cotton Manufacturers' association; James D. Hammett, president of the South Carolina association; A. E. Ledyard, president of the Alabama association; A. W. McEllan, president of the Louisiana association; Walter Hogg, president of the Texas association; B. M. Cone, president of the North Carolina association. Many other men prominent in cotton manufacturing have been invited.

After the regular business of the Georgia association has been disposed of, there will be an informal open-house discussion on vital problems of the southern manufacturers, outlining a program for execution and a cordial relationship actively established between all state associations.

A luncheon will be served and the afternoon will be devoted to committee meetings, good fellowship, golf, etc. Dinner will be served at night. Following this will be the final assembly of the annual meeting.

14 CARS ARE STOLEN;
JAIL THREE SUSPECTS

Automobile thieves were active in Atlanta Sunday, reports Monday showing that 14 machines and a quantity of accessories were stolen. Most of the cars were taken from parking places in the residential section, police said.

Those reporting loss of cars were: M. L. Brittain, Jr., 142 West North avenue; J. D. Watson, 189 Ponce de Leon avenue; J. L. Dickey, Biltmore apartments; H. W. Robinson, 234 Cameron street; R. L. Smith, Decatur; M. B. Cannon, 17 Curry street; Robert Luton, 383 North Jackson street; E. F. Merriman, 8 Edgewood avenue; G. H. Campbell, 8 Leomin avenue; C. E. Johnson, Rutledge, Ala.; T. G. Gray, Jr., Montgomery drive; Miss Lavonia Seals, 174 Central avenue; C. H. Norton, 95 West Peachtree street, and Graham Perkins, 116 LaFayette drive.

Three young men were arrested by Detectives Holley and Ballard, in connection with accessory thefts. The suspects gave their names as W. C. Wardien, L. F. Preston and Carl Stamps.

COOLER WEATHER
PROMISED TODAY;
SHOWERS LIKELY

Rather cooler weather, with showers, is the promised meteorological menu for Atlanta for Tuesday. C. F. von Hermann, in charge of the local office of the U. S. weather bureau, said, however, that spring weather was really here to stay this time, and the cloudiness and showers expected all this week will be distinctly of the "spring shower" variety.

Temperatures are expected to stay close to normal, the slightly cooler weather predicted for today not being expected to show more than a few degrees of variation. Monday was a delightful day, the temperature running not far short of 80 degrees in mid-afternoon, and even at the coldest moment of the early morning hours, the thermometer registered 62 degrees. At 7 a. m. the reading showed 64 degrees.

Temperatures, said Mr. von Hermann, are high everywhere and no station in the United States reported freezing weather Monday morning. More or less cloudy weather prevails over the entire cotton states, with light rains in the central and western portions, extending northward over the Mississippi Valley. There is a moderate disturbance over Colorado, moving across the northern part of the country.

APRIL 27-MAY 4
DESIGNATED "LAW AND ORDER WEEK"

Governor Clifford Walker, Monday, issued a proclamation naming the week, April 27-May 4, as "Law and Order Week" on request of the Atlanta Junior Chamber of Commerce.

After declaring that no citizen is worthy of the name who does not obey the law, the proclamation recites the fact that the junior chamber has undertaken to impress upon the people of Atlanta the need of due regard for law and the necessity of its enforcement. It closes with a request that the movement be given the hearty support and cooperation of every person interested in a better and higher morale for the state and city.

Reading, painting, music and hockey are hobbies of Miss Macdonald, eldest daughter of the new British premier. Dancing, she says, does not appeal to her.

Fine results have been secured by doctors in private and hospital cases. These doctors have reported and are reporting quick, sure cures from the now famous Otis Treatment for piles.

So confident is Mr. Otis that this wonderful treatment will give absolute, lasting relief that he will send you a full $2.00 treatment entirely at his personal risk. Don't wait, doubt and suffer. Here is a guaranteed relief. You pay only if satisfied. You don't even have to return the treatment.

Piles are dangerous. Even if they do not pain you all the time you can't afford to neglect them, for it is just such neglect which often makes a surgeon's knife necessary. You should write now for this wonderful treatment. It is guaranteed to give you positive, quick relief.

Mr. Evans, of Kansas, says—"I suffered for years. Had to use a salve every night to sleep. Used one treatment of your wonderful medicine at home and have had no trouble or pain since. Most wonderful cure."

Send no money—just your name and address to the Otis Chemical Co., 123 Otis Ridge, Kansas City, Mo., and the full $2.00 treatment will be sent you for only $1.00 and a few cents postage. If, after use, your pile pain is not entirely gone, if you are not absolutely delighted and sure you are well, or if there is any question in your mind, just write for your money, and it will be sent to you at once. Three of Kansas City's big banks will tell you this guarantee is good.—(adv.)

TO REMAIN IN OFFICE

Copenhagen, April 14.—The Danish cabinet of Premier Neergaard, which has held office since 1920, resigned today. The resignation was the result of the defeat of the government party in last week's election, the labor party electing the largest number of members of any party in the folketing.

At the request of King Christian, however, the Neergaard cabinet will continue in office provisionally.

Try Her Way

The way millions now employ to fight film on teeth

Try the method which is bringing the prettier teeth you see. It is the modern method of teeth cleaning. Millions now employ it. The results are seen in every circle, in those whiter, cleaner teeth. It means new beauty, new cleanliness, new charm. Let this test prove that to you.

Why teeth decay and discolor
You feel on teeth a viscous film. Much of it clings and stays. No ordinary tooth paste can effectively combat it.

Food stains, etc., discolor it, so it forms dingy coats. That is why so many teeth are discolored.

Film also holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Very few escaped these troubles under old ways of tooth brushing. Just because they did not combat that film.

Protect the Enamel
Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

Pepsodent
The New-Day Dentifrice

Based on modern research. Now advised by leading dentists the world over.

Science has in late years found effective film combatants. One disintegrates the film at all stages of formation. One removes it without harmful scouring. Able authorities have proved these methods effective. A new type tooth paste has been created to apply them daily. The name is Pepsodent.

Leading dentists the world over began to urge this method. Now careful people of some 50 nations employ it in their homes.

No one can doubt the results
The results are quick and convincing. And they are necessary. Pepsodent multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is there to neutralize mouth acids. It multiplies the ptyalin in saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits on teeth. These combined results bring one quickly a new conception of what clean teeth mean.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

Then decide if your home should adopt this modern method. Cut out coupon now.

WAR IS RESUMED ON MELLON PROBE

Washington, April 14.—With both sides newly fortified by entrenchments thrown up over the week end, the senate today resumed its war over Secretary Mellon and the future of the congressional investigation program.

Senator Watson, republican, Indiana, chairman of the special committee investigating the internal revenue bureau, told his colleagues and democratic leaders privately after a conference with President Coolidge and Mr. Mellon that the president had not intended by his message last week to strike at any of the senate inquiries except that directed against the treasury secretary.

Administration opposition to the employment of Francis J. Heney as special counsel for the revenue bureau committee would be continued, the Indiana senator said, regardless of the fate of the democratic move to make that employment legal by a formal senate resolution.

When the interpretation placed on the president's message by Senator Watson was communicated to Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader, the latter declared the president ought in that case to send a "supplemental message" explaining his exact purpose.

S.S.S. The World's Best Blood Medicine

progress at private conferences and in the senate cloak rooms, debate on the presidential nomination to the senate to "win in the last" hour, but at the floor. Senator Edge, republican, New Jersey, declared democratic criticism of Mr. Coolidge's message was based on disappointment that the revenue bureau inquiry had not disclosed improper tax refunds to the "Mellon companies."

Senator Watson said after the white house conference that he would not press immediately his resolution to end the revenue bureau inquiry and that he saw no occasion now for a reply to the statement made public last night by Governor Pinchot, of Pennsylvania.

"Governor Pinchot confirmed what I said in the senate Saturday," Senator Watson said, "that he had suggested to Senator Couzens of Michigan, the employment of Heney. I see no occasion for a reply."

With Senator Couzens seriously ill in a hospital at Baltimore, the inquiry has been suspended temporarily and it is not likely that there will be an effort to press it before his return to the senate. There is every indication, however, that the part taken by him and by Governor Pinchot in the controversy will have a prominent place in the senate debate until the issue is settled.

Senator Edge reopened the discussion with a prepared address. He declared the "standing of the senate in the country today is at the lowest ebb in the history of the nation, because of its 'illy-concealed efforts' to break down the morale of important departments of the government."

Message Justified.
"In my judgment," Senator Edge declared, "the president's message was not only justified, but if he had failed to so assert his responsibility, he would have been convicted of supine. He unhesitatingly and properly met his obligation absolutely. I trust he will be heard."

"If the senate refuses to take due notice, the country will not. If you on the other side really believe this program of inquiry and assumption of the power of the courts will be approved by the country, in my judgment you will soon be rudely disillusioned."

It seems now to be admitted that the real cause of the back of Mr. Heney's employment was to reach Mr. Mellon through an investigation of the prohibition department. I am inclined to the view that a real investigation there, not simply a man hunt, would be enlightening.

Senator Edge paid his respects to "witnesses of the type of Roxie Skason and Gaston Means." "Fair-minded men protest that the reputation of men who have held high and honorable positions should not be in the custody of such characters," he said. "That is where some of us differ with the democratic prosecutors."

"Practically every republican senator as well as the president has time after time called for a complete inquiry into all the conditions surrounding the leasing of the naval oil reserves and that proper punishment be meted out to any public official guilty of violation of the law."

"With the knowledge that all possible useful information has been turned over to the attorneys, the committee now employs its activities in the investigation of campaign receipts of both parties, which information was secured by an investigating committee four years ago. The reports were printed and if the oil lease investigating committee is interested it can have a full transcript. But no, the committee apparently prefers Al Jennings and to struggle along hoping for new and varied sensations and in the meantime the cases are properly in the courts."

Senator Hefflin, democrat, Alabama, declared his protest against the leasing of the naval oil reserve to Doheny and Sinclair. He said Mr. Edge's "attack on the senate" was in reality an attack on the republican party, because it was in control of both houses of congress.

There had been no "moans" over the political fall of Doheny or Daugherty, said Senator Hefflin, "but in Mellon you touch the man who holds the strong box—in a presidential election year." He suggested it was strange Senator Edge should be seeking reelection to such a "low standing" body.

"We hope to improve it," interjected Senator Edge.

"There will be an improvement in New Jersey," returned the Alabama senator. "New Jersey is due to go democratic this year."

The deduction that Senator Couzens had been read out of the party for opposing the Mellon plan was drawn by Senator Hefflin and by Senator Swanson, democrat, Virginia, who cited a recent suggestion by Senator Reed, republican, Pennsylvania, that former Secretary Denby return to Michigan and run for the senate.

Banker Reported
$600,000 Short
At Kansas City

Kansas City, April 14.—L. E. Roberts, chief national bank examiner in the Tenth Federal Reserve district, announced tonight he would file charges against John M. Moore, former president of the Fidelity National Bank and Trust company, as soon as the check of the bank's account is completed. Mr. Moore today was dropped by the board of directors after the discovery that he was short $600,000.

Mr. Moore is reported seriously ill at his home and has issued no statement. Financial interests of the city were shocked at the disclosure of the shortage, but prompt action by the board of directors in announcing the loss already had been made good and that the bank is "absolutely sound," apparently restored confidence. Officials announced that depositors' withdrawals today had been inconsequential.

Mr. Moore last week was re-elected president of the Kansas City Clearing House association. He came to Kansas City in 1916. The directors characterized him as a diligent and competent banker and asserted that his present difficulty grew out of his private affairs. He is known to have been under heavy financial obligations in connection with recent unsatisfactory ranching operations in Texas.

Mr. Moore, who is 64 years old, left his office last Friday complaining illness. His wife, returning home, found him lying unconscious on the floor. Reports that he had attempted suicide were denied.

The shortage was discovered during a regular check, such as is made on all national banks, Examiner Roberts said.

ASK FORD TO APPEAR AT SHOALS HEARINGS

Washington, April 14.—The senate agricultural committee today directed Chairman Norris to request Henry Ford to appear in person, or through an authorized agent, during the hearings on Muscle Shoals and explain some features of his bid.

The committee also agreed to extend the hearing until April 29 to permit Governor Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, to testify.

SENATOR COPELAND TAKES RAP AT G. O. P.

Columbia, S. C., April 14.—Dr. Royal S. Copeland, United States senator from New York, noted authority on health matters and mentioned as a possibility for the democratic nomination for president, delivered two addresses in Columbia today.

National and international issues were discussed by him at a joint meeting of the Columbia chamber of commerce and the civic clubs of the city at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, and at 4 o'clock a second address was delivered before the annual meeting of the Richland Anti-Tuberculosis society.

Senator Copeland urged the immediate calling of an international business and economic conference for the "rehabilitation of the world's industry and commerce," while speaking before the civic and commercial organizations. He favored the soldier bonus, attacked the republican party for what he described as its attitude toward labor, and denounced the Fordney-McCumber tariff act.

Problems that face the larger cities of the United States were discussed by him in the speech before the health association, danger of epidemics and methods of coming with them, better babies, and the value of organized health work.

Dr. Copeland, who is accompanied by Mrs. Copeland in his travels, left today for Raleigh, N. C., where he will address the League of Women Voters tomorrow afternoon and a public meeting tomorrow night.

Baraca and Philathea Convention Banquet At Wesley Memorial

The Baraca and Philathea convention banquet, originally scheduled to be held at 7:30 o'clock Thursday night at the First Christian church, will be held in the Wesley Memorial church auditorium, it was announced Monday. The change was necessitated by the revival which opened Sunday night at the First Christian church.

Walter H. Beckham, president of the Georgia Baraca association, will be the guest of honor and will deliver the principal address at the meeting, which will be held at 8 o'clock at the convention to be staged at Brunswick in the near future. An elaborate musical program has also been arranged.

SINGLE ACCIDENT IN CITY SUNDAY SETS NEW RECORD

Only one automobile accident in Atlanta Sunday! That fact, shown in the report of George Deibert, president of the Atlanta Safety council, is a practical demonstration of what can be accomplished in the way of preventing traffic accidents when both the car drivers and pedestrians exhibit a proper degree of care.

"The record shows," Mr. Deibert stated, "that can be accomplished by stopping to think. It is in the power of the people to prevent practically every accident other than those caused by defective machinery, and the fine record of Sunday, ordinarily a day on which the accident total mounts higher than on any other, is sufficient proof to convince the most skeptical."

"The fine weather Sunday brought out a large crowd of motorists, and streets were crowded throughout the day and early evening, but still only one accident of any consequence resulted."

CIVIC LEAGUE MEN WILL STAGE SHOW; WOMEN NEXT WEEK

Men of the North Boulevard Park Civic league will stage ten vaudeville acts Friday night in the Inman school auditorium, the performance to be the first of three planned by members of the league. Receipts from all performances will be used to purchase new chairs for the auditorium.

The second program will be participated in by women only, and the final show will include the best acts from the first two performances. A jazz band, composed of members of the league, has been sworn to impartiality and will play at all three performances.

All in all, there are 15,000,000 more women than men in Europe.

Dismissal of Profs Is Held Legal and Partly Justified

UNIVERSITY OF TENNESSEE PROBE CONCLUDED

Boston, April 14.—A finding that a board of trustees of the University of Tennessee was within its legal rights and, in some cases, justified in its dismissal of seven professors in July, 1923, has been made by the committee on academic freedom and tenure of the American Association of University Professors.

The committee's report was made public today by Professor J. H. W. W. of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, secretary of the association.

The report adds that the manner of dismissal of the professors was not in accordance with the spirit of justice and fair treatment. The committee also found no conclusive evidence that the dismissals were made, as had been alleged, because of the religious opinions of the persons involved.

The professors dropped were J. W. Sprague, Mrs. A. M. Withers, John R. Neal, A. A. Schaefer, H. S. Radford, R. S. Ellis and Maurice Mulvaney. Sprague was told that his work as liaison officer between the university and preparatory schools was unsatisfactory. Mrs. Withers was informed she would not be reappointed, chiefly because of a complex situation arising from incompatibility and want of cooperation between two department heads. Neal was charged with laxness in respect to standards of work. The others were charged with failure to cooperate with the administration, agitation and organizing of meetings of protest against its policies, and furnishing to newspapers statements injurious to the university.

The committee finds that in several of these cases some disciplinary measure, such as a reprimand accompanied by a warning, would have been sufficient, and that in any case longer notice should have been given the professors of the intention to drop them.

Notification that they would not be reappointed was given to Sprague and Mrs. Withers in April, 1923. This resulted in much criticism and agitation among faculty and students, and the trustees in July voted to drop not only these two, but the five others.

The report was made by a subcommittee of inquiry consisting of Professor James W. Garner, University of Illinois, chairman; Professor P. H. Hodder, University of Kansas; Dean Edward H. Kraus, of the college of pharmacy, University of Michigan; Professor H. A. Miller, University of Chicago, and Professor Edward S. Thuston, Yale. It was approved by the committee on academic freedom.

Have You Piles?

When You Have Something to Learn.

Thousands who have piles have not learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor removal of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove a cause.

His prescription, HEM-RID, is now sold by all druggists. Dr. Leonard tried it in 1000 cases with the marvelous record of success in 98 per cent, and then decided it should be sold under a rigid money-back guarantee.

Don't waste any more time with outside applications. Get a package of HEM-RID from Jacobs Drug Stores today. It has given safe and lasting relief to thousands and should be the same for you—it seldom fails. (adv.)

DAUGHERTY CITED TODAY BY SENATE

Washington, April 14.—Decision was reached by the senate committee investigating the department of justice at an executive session today to cite M. S. Daugherty, president of the Midland National bank, of Washington, to appear before the committee "prosecutor," and Chairman Brookhart proceeding with regard to it.

The committee, which held no public hearing today, also conferred at length behind closed doors with Attorney General Stone regarding questions before it. Members later expressing satisfaction with the interview.

They declared there would be no difficulty in the future of obtaining files and records of the department of justice bearing upon the investigation and left the intimation that Mr. Stone's attitude and conduct of the department might cut short their labors.

The contempt resolution against M. S. Daugherty will be given to the senate as soon as it can be prepared, possibly tomorrow, and will declare that the "obstinate banker" has refused the request of a senate subpoena, both to testify and to permit the records of official transactions involving M. M. Daugherty, the former attorney general, declared to be in his possession, to be inspected by the senate or its agents.

Meanwhile, the oil committee will proceed with its inquiry by a resolution of its public hearings tomorrow, when Chairman Brookhart plans to see more light on contracts between the Wright-Martin Aircraft corporation and the department of justice arising from "overpayments" on airplane contracts during the war.

Howard Mannington, of Columbus, Ohio, whose residence in Washington has been a center of much testimony, has also been ordered to make his appearance tomorrow before the committee. Chairman Brookhart said, but whether he will at once is a question. The committee preference appeared tonight to be for details of the Wright-Martin contracts, inasmuch as testimony adduced in Ohio has contained reference to ownership of 2,500 shares of that stock in that corporation by H. M. Daugherty, when attorney general.

The resolution to cite M. S. Daugherty for contempt, as ordered by the committee, will seek a different procedure than was taken by the senate toward Harry K. Sinclair, for declining to testify before the senate oil committee. The senate asked the district attorney in Washington to obtain an indictment before the criminal court against Mr. Sinclair, whereas the Daugherty matter will ask the arrest of the banker and his appearance before the senate. The justice department exists for both actions, it was said, but the step today was ordered because it will permit Mr.

HOW IS YOUR COLON TODAY?

Tell me how your colon is functioning and I will tell you how you feel. If your colon is emptying itself freely, regularly and completely every day, you feel young, energetic and vigorous; sleep soundly and awake refreshed; eat with relish, enjoy your meals and digest thoroughly. If your colon is lazy and lacking in tone so that the poisonous matters are being retained and reabsorbed into your system, you feel nervous, irritable, weak, dyspeptic and prematurely old.

Colon poisoning (auto-intoxication) is the most common cause of chronic diseases and premature degeneration of the vital organs. Millions suffer without realizing how easily the cause can be removed. Tell your druggist to send you a bottle of Colatone—the colon tonic. It will quickly restore tone to the muscular walls of your colon. Your toxic condition will disappear and you will feel young, energetic and vigorous. Colatone removes the cause of constipation. Your druggist is instructed to refund the price, one dollar, if you are not thoroughly delighted with Colatone. (adv.)

Boyd Withdraws His Resignation As School Head

Baton Rouge, La., April 14.—At the request of the board of supervisors of Louisiana State university, Colonel T. D. Boyd who several months ago resigned as president of that institution, after serving as its head for 25 years, today withdrew his resignation indefinitely.

Colonel Boyd in a letter to Governor Parker last November said he wished to retire from the presidency of the university at the age of 70 years, which he had reached. It was for considering his resignation that a special meeting of the board was called today.

The meeting of the board was behind closed doors. It was believed Colonel Boyd had been requested to serve at least until the opening of the university's session in the fall of 1926.

When the case was called, Assistant District Attorney Ward informed the court that counsel for Mrs. Hayes wished to offer a plea of guilty to attempted forgery in the third degree. To continue the trial on a second degree forgery charge, Mr. Ward said, would require at once.

The court accepted the plea, announcing that sentence would be imposed on April 25. Judge McIntyre said that under no circumstances would he permit Mrs. Hayes to withdraw her plea. Bail was fixed at $10,000.

Mrs. Hayes was indicted on May 9, 1923, on the specific charge of inducing Mr. Schwab's name to the following note, dated January 5, 1923: "Sixty days after date, I promise to pay to ourselves $25,000, payable at Standard Concrete Steel company, 201 West 23rd street, New York city. The men are to assemble in their home armories at 7 p. m. and to stand roll call at 7:30. The trial mobilization will be the first ever held in the

Mrs. Myrtle Hays Admits Forging Name of Schwab

New York, April 14.—Mrs. Myrtle Bowman Hayes pleaded guilty in general sessions court today to a charge of attempted forgery for inducing the name of Charles M. Schwab to a $25,000 note. Her trial was to have been resumed today.

Mrs. Hayes was indicted for second degree forgery. After several delays the case came to trial last week and the taking of testimony was to have begun today.

DR. WILLIS HELD PENDING INQUESTS

Williston, Fla., April 14.—Dr. J. M. Willis, physician, held in connection with the killing of D. T. Faircloth, a baker, and Faircloth's four-year-old daughter here last Saturday, tonight was in jail in a nearby city awaiting the verdict of two coroners' juries holding inquests. The juries recessed late last night until tomorrow.

Pulver declare eyewitnesses said Faircloth and his daughter were killed in a pistol duel between Faircloth and Willis. Willis was said to have been in the bakery last Saturday afternoon. He ran out of the place, it was said, and fired several shots from behind a tree. Faircloth, according to witnesses, came out of his shop, fired all the shots in his pistol, and then retired to his bakery, where two more shots were heard later. It had not been decided tonight, authorities said, whether Faircloth and his child were shot by Dr. Willis or the baker shot his child and then committed suicide.

The quarrel, police said, resulted from alleged attentions paid to Mrs. Faircloth by Dr. Willis. Faircloth and Willis were said to have engaged in a fist fight several months ago. Willis, according to his attorneys, has refused to make a statement. He is a former member of the school board and former mayor of the city.

COOLIDGE APPEALS TO WOMEN TO VOTE

every element of patriotism, intelligence and capacity that can be summoned.

"I am much less concerned for what party, what politics and what candidates you vote, than that you shall vote, and that your vote shall represent conviction. When an enlightened electorate acts, I have no fear of the result."

"Here in America we are living under a form of democratic-republican institutions, which I profoundly believe to be the best that have yet been devised. I say this because our system has gone so far in carefully separating the different departments of the government. . . . In the early development of popular institutions, the legislative and executive authorities were divided. . . . But not until the founders of our republic had made a further distribution and differentiation of functions was popular government assured the opportunity to prove its case. When the judicial function was set apart and made the third independent, but coordinating factor in the form of government, the scheme of a perfected democratic-republicanism was for the first time presented to the world. That was the great contribution made by the founding fathers in our constitution. By virtue of it, the people were at last assured equality against the tyranny of any despotic executive and the tyranny of any despotic legislature. Neither of them, nor both of them together, might thereafter impose a lawless will upon a defenseless people."

Summons American People.

"To the preservation, the guardianship, and the gradual perfection of this system, the American people may well be summoned. From its earliest establishment, our government has been an example to other peoples, wherever they might be, seeking the way of enlightened freedom. . . . We shall succeed, if we keep always before us the high purpose which presided at the beginning of our government. We shall need at all times, and we need particularly in this current troubled period, to keep clearly in our thought the conception of our system as the most nearly perfect mode of guaranteeing the essentials of freedom."

"Under it, we have grown in strength and wealth and moral authority. But we have never seen, and it is unlikely that we ever shall see, the time when we can safely relax our vigilance and risk our institutions to run themselves under the hand of an active, even though well-intended minority."

"To that we might add that no minority is good enough to be trusted with the government of a majority. And still further, we shall be wise if we maintain that no majority can be trusted to be wise enough, and good enough, at all times, to exercise unlimited control over a minority. We need the restraints of a written constitution."

Take Interest in Affairs.

"To prevent the possibility of such things happening, we must require all citizens who are entitled to do so to take their full part in public affairs. We must be sure that the people are educated, trained and equipped to do their part well. We must not permit the mechanisms of government, the multiplicity of constitutional and statutory provisions to become so complex as to get beyond control by an aroused and informed electorate. We must provide ample facilities of education, and this will require constant expansion and liberalization. . . . We must aim to impress upon each citizen the individual duty to be a sincere student of public problems, in order that he may rightly render the service which his citizenship expects. But after all, good citizenship is neither intricate nor involved. It is simple and direct. It is everyday common sense and justice. . . ."

"The determination of national policy that will be made in next November will turn quite as much upon the attitude of the women, as upon the judgments of the men. So I come to you women, who I know will pardon me if I prefer to address you as representatives of the daughters of all the revolutions, rather than as merely the Daughters of the American Revolution."

tion, to say that your country wants not only your votes, but your influence in all coming elections. By this I do not mean to appeal in behalf of any party. I appeal in behalf of our common country. It is not enough to say that you did not seek the ballot. Your heroic sires did not seek the revolution. But it came, and they met it by heroic action. Surely the womanhood of the nation, who go down into the valley of the shadow of death for their sons and daughters, cannot long neglect to participate in elections that they and their children may continue to have the advantages of a government that is clean and wise and sound."

Appeals to Women.

"As it was the initiation of America which made womanhood suffrage a modern ideal for the world, so we want now the initiation of America to make citizen suffrage a demonstrated success for the world. I have absolute confidence that if American womanhood will exercise the right of franchise after fair, considerate and mature deliberation, voting for what is right as their best judgment shows them the right, that the right will be the best hope of the world."

PRESIDENT GENERAL GIVES HER REPORT.

Washington, April 14.—The thirty-third annual congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution opened at Continental Memorial hall today for a week's session. Delegates from every state, numbering more than 2,000, are gathered here for the annual meeting of the organization. Mrs. Anthony Wayne Cook, and the report of the general officers during the day. Tonight they were addressed by President Coolidge, the French ambassador, Jules J. Jusserand, and the British ambassador, Sir Esme Howard. Tomorrow's sessions will be given over to reports of committees and meetings of state delegations.

The president-general in her annual message urged women to exercise their right of franchise, pleaded for strict law enforcement, and warned against continued disregard for governmental authority. In her annual report, Mrs. Cook said the growth of the society had been at the rate of almost 1,000 a month during the year. Steps for expediting action upon applications were being taken, she said.

Funds for the erection of the Pilgrim Mothers' Memorial Fountain at Plymouth, Mass., have been raised, she reported, and the work will be started as soon as the plans are completed.

The resignation of Mrs. Thomas A. Edison as chaplain-general was made known today. Mrs. Edison gave as her reason that the illness of her husband required more of her time, and that she could not devote the time necessary for the duties of the office.

EDISON RETURNS TO LABORATORY.

West Orange, N. J., April 14.—Back from his annual vacation at Fort Myers, Fla., where he maintains a winter home, Thomas A. Edison, inventor, today returned to his laboratory here. Although illness of her husband was given in Washington today as the reason for the resignation of Mrs. Thomas A. Edison as chaplain-general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, Mrs. Charles Edison, the inventor's daughter-in-law, expressed the opinion it was due to the large amount of work in connection with the position and the necessity of respectfully being away from home. She said Mr. Edison was in excellent health.

Whitmire, Bitten By Spider, Quits Hospital Today

H. F. Whitmire, 32, of Brookhaven, who was poisoned early Monday morning when bitten by a spider, was considerably improved Monday night, and physicians pronounced him out of all danger, and said that he would be discharged from Grady hospital today.

Whitmire was bitten while sleeping, and it was thought that the poison, which was injected into his right arm by the venomous insect, might prove fatal. The spider is thought to have swung from the ceiling when Whitmire was bitten, as the spider was found hanging above the man's head.

state are among the best, and our editorial talent of the highest rank, yet we bow the knee to book printers in northern cities and pay an annual excess toll of approximately half a million dollars.

Cites Britain's Promise.

"I hold in my hand a small primer, written copyright free, by Dr. M. L. Brittain of the Georgia Literacy Commission. It was printed in Atlanta for our use, in quantities at 7 cents per book, and we send it out without profit to local organizations throughout the state. The official Atlanta public schoolbook list which I hold in my hand has on that list a primer, published by a non-resident combine, at 55 cents each. The difference in the cost of producing these books is negligible. For the sake of conservatism this estimate of saving is very low."

"I am quite sure it can be shown that by publishing the books at home, both for state public schools and for local city schools of the state in lots not less than $750,000 a year could be saved. . . . This we also save ourselves the humiliation of being from time to time, insulted by unfair history of our own land."

"When it is considered that Georgia alone, uses approximately $8,000,000 for school books for the first seven grades, it will be seen that the volume of business would justify that the state own its own printing plant, or let the contract to the lowest bidder within its borders."

"If our neighboring states of South Carolina, Florida and Alabama would join with us using standard publications, adding to the number to be printed, it would greatly increase the output taken from one printing house and the saving to Georgia would be greatly increased, and our neighbors also would be benefited to the extent of many thousands of dollars."

Fleming was making repairs on the inside wall of the building when he lost his balance and tumbled from the ladder, falling 15 feet. He was taken to Grady hospital, where doctors say that his condition is serious.

Harold Chapel, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Chapel, 205 South Pryor street, suffered a broken arm and bruises about the head Monday afternoon when a fence on which he was standing collapsed. His injuries were attended at Grady hospital.

STAFF OFFICER LAUDS 200TH INFANTRY WORK

High praise for officers and men of the 200th infantry was the verdict of Captain R. B. Ennis, staff officer of the regular army on duty with the new regiment, following a drill Monday night of companies of the organization stationed in Atlanta.

"Not quite satisfied with establishing a new time record of organizing and getting federal recognition," he said, "it appears that officers and men are imbued with an idea of setting new training records."

More than 30 well-known Atlanta musicians were present at the armory and the first real band practice was held. John Scharf, one of the leading bandmasters of the south, is in charge, and is rapidly getting the band in shape. There is still room, he said, for a few good musicians and those interested may see Mr. Scharf at Conn's, corner Ivy street and Auburn avenue.

Adjutant-General Charles H. Cox, colonel of the 200th infantry, was present and was extremely enthusiastic over progress of the various companies. "Local companies," he said, "are in excellent shape and these regular Monday night drills are as interesting and practically as well executed as those of many organizations of much longer training."

General Cox, Lieutenant Colonel Eugene Oberdorfer and Captain Ennis visited all company headquarters.

The Success of the Elgin Railroad Watch

The New "B.W. RAYMOND"-21 Jewels

ALTHOUGH only about six months have passed since Elgin offered the Railroad Watch, "The New B. W. Raymond," it has gained an acceptance unusual in such a short time.

Part of this is unquestionably due to the fact that this new watch comes as the successor to the earlier Elgin "Raymond," which has so long enjoyed the high regard of the railroad man.

But it is not to be overlooked that this new Elgin Railroad Watch, "B. W. Raymond," is a remarkable timepiece in its own right.

Balance Wheel—new Elgin design. Extremely close compensation in different temperatures.

Mainspring—extra long, giving a safety margin of many hours' excess running power.

Regulator—positive in action, giving very close pocket regulation.

Eight Adjustments—five of them to positions. 21 jewels.

Each "B. W. Raymond" cased by the Elgin Watchmakers—special close regulation of each watch in its own case.

Case—expressly designed for the railroad man. Extra heavy stock to resist wear. Gold-filled only.

Pendant—sets down snugly to center of case. Dust-proofed by new Elgin method.

Bow—solid gold safety bow—cannot be pulled out.

Crown—deeply corrugated—a good grip for thumb and finger in winding.

Bezel—heavily knurled. Can be screwed down to keep dust out, and yet easily removed.

Dial—fine enamel. Large, clear figures. Wide reflector. Correct time visible at a glance in any light.

Experience under actual running conditions in the pockets of a large number of railroad men, shows that the new Elgin Railroad Watch, "B. W. Raymond," is an exceedingly close rating timepiece.

It is as distinctive in appearance as in performance—the most highly specialized time-keeping instrument ever produced for the railroad man.

BACKROOM PLOTS SCORED BY M'ADOO

Chicago, April 14.—If the democrats nominate for president "a reactionary or colorless candidate who can be easily influenced or controlled there will be another victory for the republicans and in that case we shall have four more years of inefficiency, special privilege and corruption at Washington," William G. McAdoo, democratic presidential candidate, said in a statement here tonight.

Mr. McAdoo arrived here from a trip through Utah, Oklahoma, Colorado and Texas, where, he declared, he found further evidence of the domination of the people to see nominated a progressive democrat running on a progressive platform. He is on his way to the northwest.

"I have been following the only genuinely democratic course," he said, "namely, going to the people direct, stating my position on public questions and giving them a chance to decide for themselves who the nominee of the party shall be. I am opposed to manipulated party conventions, controlled from a back room or any other secret device by any small group or sinister influence. My opponents do not seem to be any too eager for a fight in the open or to have the people pass upon their case. They prefer 'unintended delegations' and similar subterfuges to enable them to manipulate the convention."

Most of the states that have acted, he declared, show that the people ex-

MRS. TRAMMELL DIES AT BIRMINGHAM HOME

Word has been received here of the death of Mrs. Genobia Trammell, widow of the late Colonel Leander N. Trammell, who died Monday at Birmingham.

Mrs. Trammell, who was 90 years old, was well known throughout Georgia, and resided in Marietta and Dalton for many years before moving to Birmingham. During the period when the family resided in Marietta, Colonel Trammell was chairman of the Georgia railroad commission.

Mrs. Trammell is survived by four daughters, Mrs. John M. Cartwright and Mrs. W. L. Sessions, of Birmingham, and Mrs. Frank M. Boston and Mrs. William L. Pomeroy, of Atlanta, and three sons, Paul B. Trammell, of Dalton, chairman of the Georgia public service commission; L. N. Trammell, of Marietta, and W. J. Trammell, of Waycross.

Interment will be Wednesday in Dalton.

2 Gordon Youths Are Sentenced To Reformatory

Barnesville, Ga., April 14.—(Special.)—Wesley Busbee, 16, of Lincoln, and Kenneth Mathews, 14, of Vidalia, today were sentenced to the state reformatory until they are 21 years old when they entered pleas of guilty to charges of burning a dormitory at Gordon institute on the night of March 3. The whole student body of the school attended the trial of the case, which was presided over by G. Owen Pearsons.

The dormitory, the third to be burned in a period of six months, was destroyed just after a local civic club had voted $10,000 to rebuild one of the others. Officials began an investigation, believing that the fires were of an incendiary origin. The boys confessed to the burning of the last dormitory but denied their connection with the other fires. The investigations will be continued into the burning of the others, officials here today intimated.

In passing sentences on the youths, Judge Pearsons made an impressive speech, showing the advantages of an education and pointing out the "crime of destroying the foundation of our civilization."

Verdict of Guilty For Chiropractor In Death of Girl

New York, April 14.—Ernest G. H. Meyer, a Brooklyn chiropractor, convicted of second-degree manslaughter, was sentenced today to serve from one to two years in Sing Sing prison by Supreme Court Justice Hagarty.

Meyer was found guilty of the death of six-year-old Caroline Germino, who died of diphtheria.

Counsel for Meyer told the court that the chiropractor had treated the little girl for two years, bringing her "from a state of helplessness to something resembling health." The attorney pleaded for mercy.

In pronouncing a sentence Justice Hagarty said:

"The jury has found that you negligently caused the loss of a human life. You held yourself out as one competent to cure disease. Diphtheria is a serious disease. If scientifically treated, however, the ratio of mortality is low. You took the responsibility of treating that case and you have been held accountable for it. You must take the consequences."

"Your conviction will serve as a warning to all parents responsible for children and to adults who have a responsibility to themselves, as well as to all persons who practice medicine illegally."

Meyer's counsel said he would appeal.

NEBRASKA BREAD LAW IS DECLARED INVALID

Washington, April 14.—Nebraska's law prescribing the maximum as well as the minimum weight of loaves of bread was declared invalid today by the supreme court.

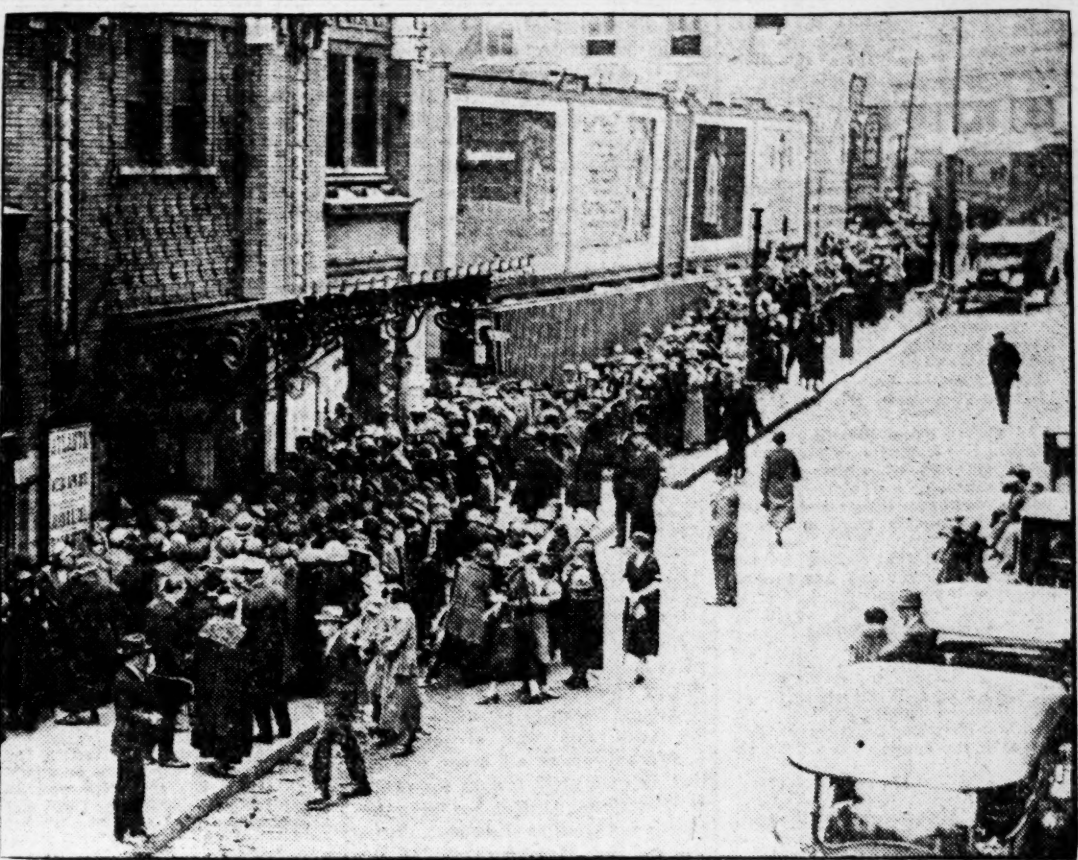

Admitting the right of states to fix the minimum weight of loaves the court held that the law of Nebraska was unconstitutional.

The law was challenged by the Jay Burns Baking company and others who contested the right of Nebraska to fix the maximum.

Hundreds Wait in Line for Many Hours For Tickets For Stock Company Opening

Part of the long line waiting for box office at Atlanta theater to open. Baldwin Players will begin spring and summer stock season Monday.

J. F. Johnson, of 223 Harris street, East Point, at 8 o'clock Sunday night, took up his post as first in line for opening of the box office at the Atlanta theater for the spring and summer engagement in stock of John B. Littel and the Baldwin Players.

Mr. Johnson stood at his post all night, determined not to relinquish the honor of getting first choice of seats when the box office opened at 9 o'clock Monday. At 6 o'clock in the morning he was joined by Miss Marie Vickery, of 65 St. Charles avenue. Soon, however, more came and the line grew and grew.

Well, take a look at it in the picture above. Know, also, that this line extended round the corner into Pryor street, down Pryor and round the corner into Ivy, and nearly reached back again into Exchange place, almost circling the theater block.

All day long Charlie Tidwell, guardian of the box office, handed out reservations and tickets for single performances and still the demand continued. Women fainted and were carried away in automobiles kindly loaned by passersby. Sympathetic storekeepers brought out chairs, stools, empty boxes and cans, for seats, and still the crowd patiently waited, as it moved, step at a time, towards its goal. It was noted, incidentally, that of the hundreds waiting to make reservations, the vast majority were women. There were not more than 50 men in the ranks at any time.

Police were called to officiate in the emergency. They stretched ropes along the sidewalk edge and kept order.

In the meantime, inside the theater, Walter S. Baldwin, impresario of the new stock company, paced his office, smiling and happy.

"In 40 years in the theater game," he said, "I never saw anything like this. The people of Atlanta will never know how I appreciate it. John and I are going to do everything in our power to justify this enthusiasm."

The "John" Mr. Baldwin was talking about is John Littel, who is the leading man with the new company. Mr. Littel reached Atlanta Monday from New Orleans, where he has been playing with the Saenger Players, closing that engagement Saturday night. As he walked about the familiar Atlanta streets, Mr. Littel greeted old friends and told how glad he is to be back. He has changed little in appearance since his earlier Atlanta engagement, when he won his popularity as a leading man. Incidentally, that popularity was given sure proof in the box office line Monday—for a large proportion of the would-be ticket purchasers were there because of John Littel's name on the advance billing.

Selena Royle Arrives.

Selena Royle, the leading lady of the new company, also arrived Monday. Her appearance upholds all that was told in advance—she is one of the six prettiest women in America today. Fill in the other five names by your own choice. Miss Royle comes from New York, where she has been appearing on Broadway at the City Theater in "Rust."

Among others of the excellent cast of 12, which will open on Monday, next, an engagement to last all spring and summer, who reached the city Monday were Miss Flora Gade, a vivacious young redhead, who will play ingenues. She comes from Pittsfield, Mass., where she has been leading lady of the stock company there. Then there is Miss Rhea Lively, just closed in New York in "So This is London." She will play second woman parts.

Miss Williams was born near Greenville, Augusta county, March 9, 1869, was a graduate of Washington and Lee university, and of the Union Theological seminary. He was ordained in 1899, and before coming here, served as pastor of the Brean Memorial Presbyterian church, in Charleston, W. Va., and the Georgia Avenue Presbyterian church, Atlanta.

GEORGIA SENATORS SEEK BATTLESHIPS FOR LEGION MEET

Washington, April 14.—Senators Harris and George today asked Secretary of the Navy Wilbur to send several naval vessels and airplanes to Savannah on June 6 for the state convention of the American Legion. The senators addressed a joint communication to the secretary of the navy, and in a few days they expect to follow up the matter personally, when an engagement can be arranged. They also asked for naval vessels about June 19 for the celebration of the opening of the Brunswick and St. Simons highway at Brunswick.

The two senators have also requested Major General Lejeune, commander of the marine corps, to send some of his units from Parris Island to Savannah for the state meeting and requested Secretary of War Weeks to have representatives of the army at the legion assemblage.

BIDS RECEIVABLE FOR HOTEL LEASE AT FORT MONROE

Washington, April 14.—The Old Point Comfort Hotel company has applied to the war department for permission to erect a hotel to cost not less than $1,000,000, at Fort Monroe, Va., on the site of the historic Chamberlin hotel, destroyed by fire several years ago.

The company has been informed that bids for the necessary license will be received by the department July 1. Under the law the secretary of war is authorized to lease the property in question for hotel purposes for a period of fifty years.

REV. H. J. WILLIAMS DIES AT RICHMOND

Richmond, Va., April 14.—The Rev. H. J. Williams, president of the Richmond Ministerial union, and for more than ten years pastor of the Third Presbyterian church here, died today while at work in his garden in the rear of the church manse. He appeared to be in the best of health when he conducted the regular Sunday services a his church yesterday.

Rev. Williams was born near Greenville, Augusta county, March 9, 1869, was a graduate of Washington and Lee university, and of the Union Theological seminary. He was ordained in 1899, and before coming here, served as pastor of the Brean Memorial Presbyterian church, in Charleston, W. Va., and the Georgia Avenue Presbyterian church, Atlanta.

He is survived by the widow, who before marriage was Miss Harriet Blackford, of Atlanta, three children and seven brothers and sisters.

Rev. Williams was installed as pastor of the Georgia Avenue Presbyterian church in January, 1907, and served six years, resigning January 5, 1913, to accept a call to the Richmond church. He was married in Atlanta in 1908.

HOUSE APPROVES 10 NEW CRUISERS

Washington, April 14.—A bill, which would authorize the construction of eight 10,000-ton, fast cruisers, was approved today by the house naval committee. Construction of six gunboats at a cost of $700,000 each for use in Chinese waters also would be authorized.

The cruisers, construction of which would be permitted under the arms conference treaty, would cost $11,100,000 each, exclusive of armament and armor.

The committee also approved a proposed to convert the battleships Florida, Arkansas, Utah and Wyoming from coal to oil burners and to provide additional protection to them from submarines and aircraft attacks. The total cost of work would be $18,300,000.

Another bill reported by the committee provides for the establishment of a naval aviation base at San Diego, Calif., at an estimated cost of $1,000,000, and for improvement of the water supply at the Pensacola, Fla., naval aviation station.

JAPANESE EXCLUSION.

With the Japanese exclusion issue before the senate it will be well to consider the consequences of a break with Japan, which will almost certainly follow if an enacted senate amendment coincides with that passed by the house.

For 20 years the Japanese government has succeeded in preventing its nationals from being specifically excluded by the United States. The agreement negotiated by Elhu Root as secretary of state, and Baron Takahira, the Japanese ambassador, in the latter part of the Roosevelt administration would undoubtedly be regarded as abrogated by the Japanese government should the Shortridge amendment pass.

In Japan, as in the United States, it is emphasized, the people control the actions of the government, and if the people of Japan become offended and aroused in a matter affecting their national honor, the government of Japan is virtually obliged to assume an unfriendly if not hostile attitude toward a nation which offends Japanese nationals.

From the American standpoint, it is added, the importance of the gentlemen's agreement has been that it insured at least some degree of cooperation by Japan in regulating Japanese immigration to America and in preventing unauthorized influx of Japanese into the United States. Without this cooperation of Japan—even though it may not have been altogether satisfactory—the number of Japanese entering the United States will be greater than under present arrangements, according to officials here.

The Root-Takahira agreement provided as follows:
"First, Japan, of her own accord, will refrain from issuing passports to Japanese laborers desiring to enter territories contiguous to continental United States such as Mexico or Canada."

"Second, Japan will recognize the right of the United States to refuse the admission to continental United States of Japanese of the laboring class whose passports do not include continental United States."

"Third, Japan will issue passports to continental United States only for Japanese of the following three classes: (1) nonlaborers, such as travelers, business men, financiers, etc.; (2) Japanese, whether laborers or nonlaborers, who have already been domiciled in continental United States; (4) Japanese who have acquired farming interests in continental United States and who wish to return there to take active control of these interests."

On this page is a communication from Dr. J. C. C. Newton, prominent Atlantan, who spent many years in Japan, and he is vigorously opposed to the present exclusion act. He discusses the question most illuminatingly, and his views regarding the proposed act are undeniably sound.

It is a very delicate situation. This government is on the most friendly commercial and diplomatic relations with Japan and the latter nation is rapidly becoming one of the great civilized powers of the world.

Is there any good reason for this proposed discrimination?

THE WHEELER ISSUE.

Methods employed by the republican national committee to discredit senators who have been investigating former Attorney General Daugherty have brought sharp rebukes from a republican federal judge, many newspapers and a large number of individuals.

The republican committee's attack on Senator Wheeler, democrat, who is conducting the inquiry into Daugherty's acts as attorney general, has resulted in a public vindication of the former by Federal Judge George M. Bourquin, of Butte.

ican national committee against Senator Wheeler was, among other things, that while U. S. district attorney in Montana he refused to prosecute "bolshhevists" and that he sympathized with "reds." Judge Bourquin now publicly declares that Mr. Wheeler prosecuted persons charged with sedition. That some of these were not convicted, Judge Bourquin says, was due to the grand jury's refusal to indict, or to their acquittal "either by direction of the court or by the will of the trial jury."

Regarding the failure of prosecutions in certain cases, Judge Bourquin says, in a letter to Senator Wheeler:

"A competent prosecutor always will refuse to conduct such prosecutions (as was instigated by persons seeking private vengeance or private ends, refuse to prosecute, and in so far as you did it was with the sanction, approval and suggestion, if not at the direction of the court, in furtherance of sound public policy, and in vindication of your official oath and duty to yourself, to the court and to society."

The republican committee's implied approval of mob rule in its statement that Frank Little, charged with being a "bolshhevist," was lynched by "respectable citizens" after Senator Wheeler, then U. S. district attorney, had failed to take proper action against him, has also been widely condemned.

This indirect sanction of lynching by the republican committee came with startling inconsistency from that source, it is pointed out, since the Harding administration urged the enactment of the Dyer anti-lynching bill just before the election of 1922.

This Dyer bill was generally regarded, however, as a mere device for placating negro republican voters in northern states.

THE NATIONAL PARK.

A news dispatch from Clarksville, Georgia, announces that William C. Gregg, of the National Arts Club of New York, recently named as one of the members of the committee to select a national park site in the southern Appalachian mountains, has just completed a preliminary visit to north Georgia as the guest of Louis B. Magid. Mr. Magid is the president of the Southern Appalachian Park association and is one of the most active men in Georgia in having the park site located in the Georgia mountains.

Mr. Magid made the following statement, which is preliminarily encouraging:

"The visit of Mr. Gregg was preliminary and he was not in position to speak for the entire committee at this time. Mr. Gregg, however, stated that he was more than delighted with that part of Georgia embracing the Appalachian mountains as possibly to be the major part of the Southern Appalachian National Park. The entire committee, which consists of Congressman H. W. Temple, of Pennsylvania; Colonel Glen S. Smith, of the geological survey; W. A. Welch, chief engineer and general manager of the Palisades Interstate park, one of the largest interstate parks of New York and New Jersey; Harlan P. Kelsey, president of the Appalachian Mountain club, of Boston; and William C. Gregg, of the National Arts Club, of New York, will visit the southern Appalachian mountains, embracing north Georgia, North Carolina and Tennessee, during June and it is expected after that visit they will make their definite recommendations to Secretary Work, of the interior department, who in turn will submit the entire matter in the form of legislation to congress for authority and enactment, or for the creation of the Southern Appalachian National park in the Appalachian mountains."

In a recent communication to The Constitution Mr. Magid set out several good reasons why the park should be located in north Georgia, among them being:

Because of the easy access to it by the people of the low country of the southern states.

Because of the quick and reasonable cost of transportation to approach the national park in north Georgia.

Because of the more equitable climate of north Georgia, making the national park an all-year-round playground.

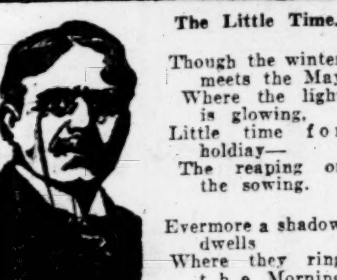

Because since it is to be a southern national park it should be close to the southern people of the most southern states.

Because it would be fitting and appropriate to have the national park located in north Georgia, being the most southern end of the Appalachian mountain range and where the Appalachian trail from Maine to Georgia will have its terminus.

The national park idea was conceived in Georgia and The Constitution-government expedition into the northeast Georgia mountains in June, 1922, was the opening of the movement for this great government development.

It will take work, coordination, cooperation and vigorous application on the part of Georgians to bring about this great objective. North Carolina, Virginia and Tennessee are all vigorously after the park. North Carolina has speakers out appearing before civic and trade bodies.

This is a matter in which Georgians of every section must take a keen personal interest. Mr. Magid is doing his part admirably, but he must have cooperation. The necessity for quick and decisive work cannot be too strongly stressed.

Though the winter meets the May Where the light is glowing, Little time for holiday—The reading of the sowing.

Evermore a shadow dwells Where they ring the morning bells.

But there's life and love to bless Where there's thorns are springing, And the dream of happiness Keeps the world a-swinging.

Little time for holiday—Let us sing along the way!

If I must sing a winter song, 'Tis better I should go, Let other fragrant heart-leaves lie Beneath the snow.

Down winding paths to freshened O, I will drink my fill, O ecstasy that Spring has flung Upon the hill!

Georgia Philosophy.

Peace in the valley, and peril on the hilltop, but it's great to be able to climb high.

The office that seeks the man sometimes turns his head with the complaint: 'sunny day in spring must make the angels sing for an earthly playground.

The dreams never come true unless the words are true.

If the world rolled close to Heaven, the prayer would be: "Lord, don't let it break in!"

All Together.

If the world is off its hinges and 'goin' to the rack, We're with it all together— All together!

If the sun is shinin' purty, or the sky is painted black, We're with it all together— All together!

In the sorrows and the sighs—in the music of the song, We're with it all together— All together!

No use to stop to reason—it's a whirl-in' us along, We're with it all together— All together!

A Sable Sermon.

No rich man kin buy his way into Heaven, an' in the other place, his money would melt before it could jingle.

The Middle of the Road.

The middle of the road is the dusty place, But it's there where the morning shines in your face!

The man who sings the loudest in church throws his head back so far that he can't see the collection basket.

Hands All 'Round.

I.
Hands all 'round, In time that's new, And joy to whiff In the dance with you!

II.
Hands all 'round, Ere the shadows steal; Shake the ground In the merry reel!

III.
Hands all 'round, At your best, Till the music dies, And the dark says, "Rest."

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Fainting and Shock.

What makes people faint? A sudden fall of blood pressure, emotion, shock, hemorrhage or illness is the immediate cause of fainting. The withdrawal of the usual supply of blood to the brain centers makes the victim lose consciousness; everything goes black or blank, and he sinks down in a faint. Usually the face is pale; the breathing is shallow; the pulse is weak, and the victim is relaxed or limp, responding to questions with feeble words or looks, if at all. It is a miserable "all gone" sensation.

Shock is the same or a similar state induced by an injury. The physical injury may be very slight, but if the circumstances under which the injury occurs are calculated to inspire terror, fear or horror, the degree of shock may nevertheless be great and the victim's chance of recovery correspondingly reduced. The recovery of a patient from shock is a matter of time and depends upon the nature of the injury and the treatment given.

First aid for fainting or shock: 1.—Give the victim air.

2.—Loosen any constricting clothing.

3.—Keep the head low. Raise any part of the body but the head.

4.—If the patient is cold, give him a warm blanket or a hot water bottle.

5.—If the patient is hot, give him a cool drink.

6.—If the patient is unconscious, do not give him anything to eat or drink.

7.—If the patient is in pain, give him a sedative.

Just In Passing
BY JAMES A. HOLLOMON

Democracy and home rule are not going to be crucified in Georgia again. You can just nail that statement to the masthead of every newspaper in the state, and broadcast it from the dome of the state capital.

Here is a letter from as good a democrat and as strong a McAdoo supporter as there is in private letters. It is one of scores of private letters of the same opinions that are reaching me daily from all over Georgia:

"The good old county of Pike gave Mr. McAdoo about two to one. The following day of the primary at the consolidation, there was no one to suggest or even to ask to be a delegate to the convention, and it was the custom always in old Pike the executive committee, which was a man, for McAdoo, appointed delegates and alternates, so notified the state chairman of the appointments and mailed consolidated returns and credentials of delegates to Mr. Bessie Anderson and delivered copy to delegates as per instruction. This was done the following day of primary as requested. I see from the papers that Mr. Bell has appointed other delegates. The delegates appointed by the committee were not asked to attend and why the county has lost all of its rights, and if the executive committee represents the people of the county, or some one else. We are with you in this, for you are right. Let them show their hand now."

All of this talk about the national committee being an issue, is a first smoke screen, and, second, an attempt to draw the fire from off the conspirator who assassinated county autonomy in this state.

Mr. Howell, the present national committee man, is not in the state nor in the country. He personally knows nothing, so far as I am aware, of the vicious attacks upon him and The Constitution, deliberately timed to appear after he had left the state. These attacks come only from one source, the secret cabal and its confederates.

I have said, and I repeat it, he would rather ten thousand times give up voluntarily the position of national committee man, although he is the dean of the committee and a national figure in democratic circles, than to be compelled to lose confidence in men who had professed loyalty and friendship under all conditions, and in whom he had unbounded faith.

Treachery to a friend is one of the most serious offenses in the category of wrongs.

That this secret cabal, headed by Hollins Randolph, deliberately planned as a part of its whole conspiracy to take advantage of Clark Howell's absence and humiliate and crush him there is not the slightest doubt in my mind.

He would have gracefully retired from the committee, which has been expensive and exacting on his part, had he been asked, or had the democrats of Georgia, for whom he has given valiant service personally and through his newspaper for 40 years, thought it advisable.

But to be treated in the manner he has been, by men professing to be his friends, has aroused the indignation of thousands of his real friends all over Georgia. I write this without his authorization, knowledge, consent or inspiration, not even as associate editor of this paper, but as a private citizen.

I simply know and appreciate the big, trusting heart of Clark Howell, who has always stood on the pedestal of honor, and whose services to his country and state have been and will always be constructive and conspicuous.

Hughes, protests against the pending Johnson bill. It is a fact that the Japanese in California are not only quiet, law-abiding, industrious people, but it is also a fact that as best they know they are endeavoring to conform to the spirit and demands of American institutions. Therefore they send their children to the public schools, dressed in American clothes, and want them to learn English and become Americans.

Moreover, the figures show that Japanese parents in California are sending two-thirds of their children to Christian Sunday schools, thus refuting the charge that they are Buddhists. The Buddhist priests are training Japanese children in un-American and anti-American ideas.

A few years ago the writer was told by a Japanese friend that when he was teaching a Sunday school in Honolulu the Japanese children insisted that he teach them in English rather than in Japanese, and in fact many of the Japanese students did not understand Japanese well.

It is a fact that many Japanese live in segregated communities, but the reason is they are shown the "cold shoulder" and treated unkindly by Americans who have been prejudiced against them.

It is a fact that recently the Japanese do not keep their rented homes in good repair. Reason: they are allowed by law to live in the same home more than three years. We Americans would do the same. A knock for truck farming, handle small fruits with skill and seem able to earn larger profits per acre than the ordinary American trucker or ranchman.

The Japanese have reclaimed considerable tracts of waste, swamp lands by patient toil, and thus these well drained lands, once entirely worthless, are made fertile and worth a price in the land market. The writer is in the city of Kobe he said: "In California the pro-Japanese are the colleges and universities, the chambers of commerce, the big ranchmen (planters in Georgia) and the Protestant churches, whereas the anti-Japanese are the labor unions, the politicians and a 'certain church'."

The Japanese are generally below the normal. In applying heat, by means of hot water bottles, hot sand or salt bags, hot flat-iron, or other carriers of heat, care must be taken to burn the patient—try

SOUTHERN LOOP OPENS TODAY---CRACKERS PLAY VOLS

Crackers Are Favored by Dopesters

Memphis, Tenn., April 14.—A stronger Southern association from every angle than ever before, on paper, will swing into action tomorrow, each team so well balanced that all appear to be likely pennant contenders. Pre-season dopesters pick Atlanta, Memphis and New Orleans, last year's pennant winner, as slightly more formidable than the rest.

Opening games:
Memphis at Little Rock.
Atlanta at Nashville.
Birmingham at Chattanooga.
New Orleans at Mobile.

PREDICT BAD WEATHER FOR CHATTANOOGA

Chattanooga, Tenn., April 14.—Showers and heavy going for tomorrow's opening of the Southern association season in Chattanooga were predicted tonight. The game will be preceded by the usual parade downtown, and in order to avoid conflict with another sporting event, will be called at 1:30 o'clock. Mayor Richard Hardy, of Chattanooga, will pitch the first ball, but his battery mate has not been announced.

The Chattanooga lineup has been shifted on the eve of the opener. Manager Nunamaker, after finding that his catching staff was weak, has assigned his place at first base to Nichols and has gone behind the bat. Kress probably will be used in the opening game, the manager suffering from a slight injury. Johnny Ring, who was claimed by waivers from Atlanta, has replaced Kress at shortstop. These changes have been made with a view of securing increased hitting strength. Except for Pennington, former of Grand Rapids, in center field, Yowell, a left-handed pitcher from Woodbury Forest school, Virginia, and Kess, who was loaned to Norfolk last year, the Chattanooga lineup consists of players who were with the team or in the league at the close of last season. Third Baseman Lindner was claimed from Little Rock, while Ring and Nichols played with Atlanta in 1923.

Manager Nunamaker has not indicated his opening pitching choice. Rice, a left-hander, who was with the club last year, was sold to Washington and returned, is the most probable selection as neither Morris, James nor Cunningham, three veterans of the staff, seem to be in condition to pitch at top form.

There will be a general closing down and officials expect the largest opening day attendance for several seasons, if the weather proves favorable.

BEARS AND PETS READY FOR START

Mobile, Ala., April 14.—The Mobile club will begin its seventeenth consecutive season of Southern association baseball Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock when the Bears open the 1924 season at Monroe park with the New Orleans club as opponents.

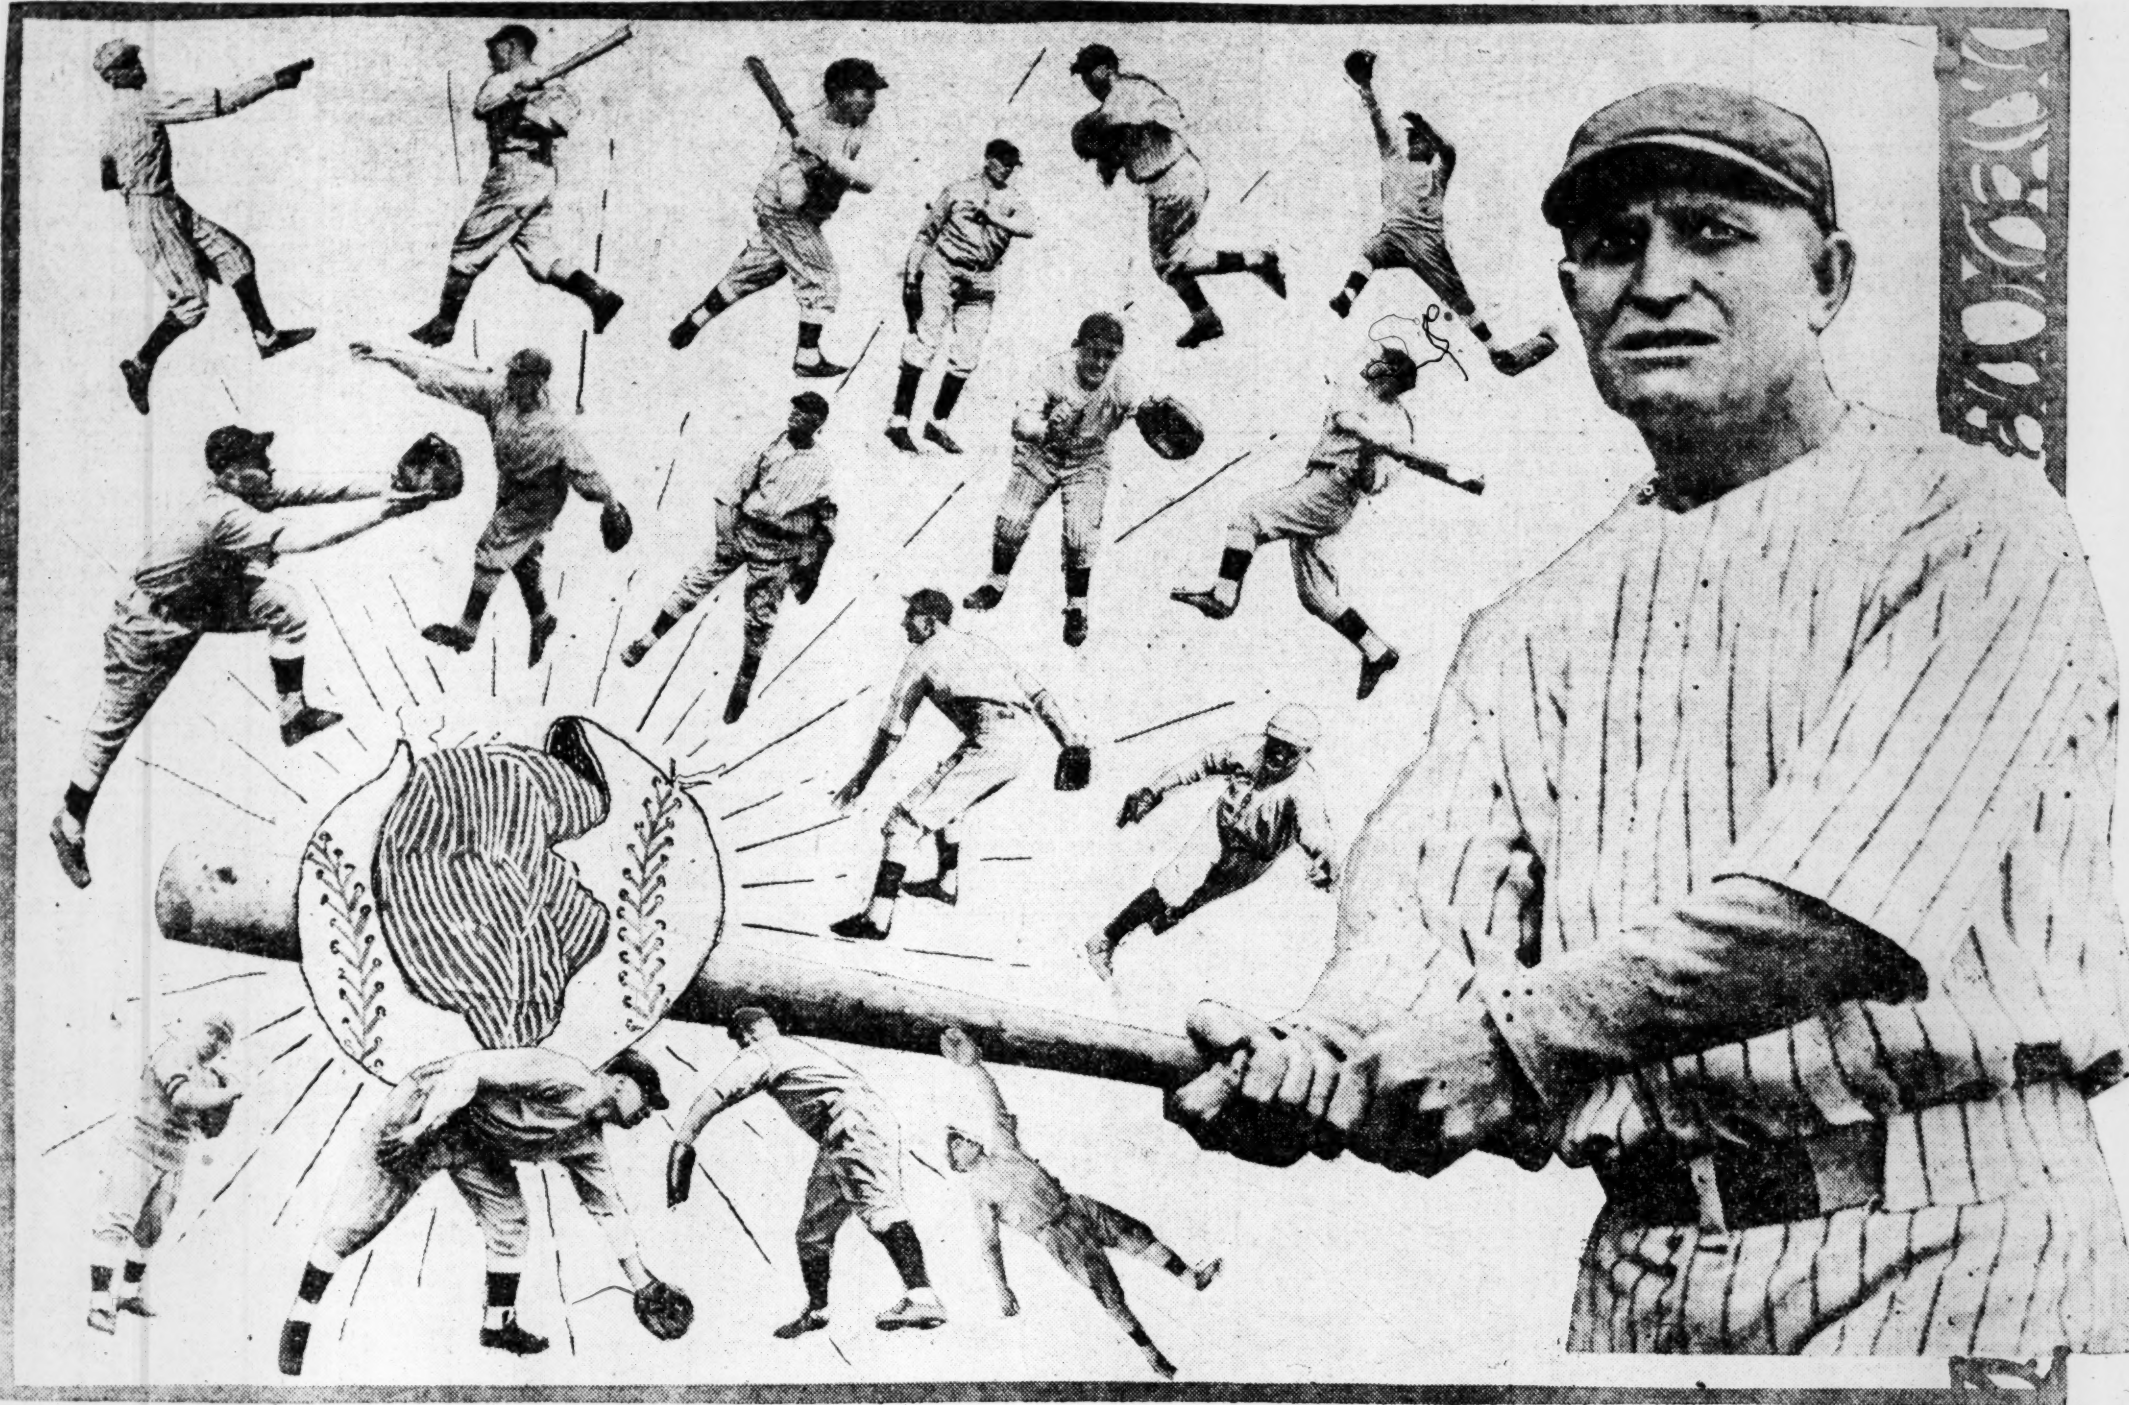

Enthusiasm over the national pastime in Mobile has not waned since the pennant-winning year and club officials are directing their efforts to attract a crowd estimated at 10,000 people with the team as they capture the league trophy for the third successive time for the largest attendance on that day for cities of the class of Mobile.

The Mobile Bears this year are headed by Manager Emil Huhn, who for two years served the team as first baseman and previous to that time was manager of the Augusta, Ga., club in the South Atlantic league.

Huhn will cover first base as well as looking after the managerial end of the club.

The events for the opening day will

Cracker Boss Cracks Open Cracker Season

The Crackers are in Nashville today ready for "His Majesty the Umps" to shout "play ball." Bert Niehoff will start the season with the greatest prospects of any Cracker team since 1919, when the last pennant was brought home to old Poncey Park. This unique picture shows every member of the Cracker squad. Those shown on the picture are as follows: Niehoff, Haworth, Brock, Burrus, Hillis, Krehmeyer, Smith, Mueller, Zoellers, McCabe, Paschal, Karr, Dumont, Schwartz, McLaughlin, Niehaus, Francis and Slappey.

Opening Day.

Another April day has dawned. But this particular April day, clothed in its garments of gladness, with violets blooming, birds singing in the treetops, ushers in another baseball year.

Myriads of American flags will swing in the sun-kissed air. Glad thousands will occupy every place of vantage, their faces radiant with joy and their hearts free from care.

All America is vibrant with unconcealed emotion. The air is electrical with expectation. A carnival spirit is everywhere. It is America's annual tribute to the greatest of all sports—baseball.

Opening Day. What fond memories will be recalled. How many air castles of pennants and championships will be erected by the wild-eyed fan as he watches his favorite team go through the practice paces before the start of the game.

At last the bugle sounds—its notes as thrilling as the "Marseillaise." Thousands upon thousands of fans will leap to attention at its command. The teams are lined up ready in each position. The announcer completes his work.

"Play ball," shouts "His Majesty, the Umps," and the barrier is sprung. Off they go in the longest of all races to be ended next September.

All through the afternoon the thousands of fans, real representatives of true Americanism, will watch their favorites come through as the winner or go down in defeat. Then to file back to their homes happy after a day of real outing.

This is America's baseball opening day.

But on through the rest of April, the entries will speed—on through the months of May, June and July. Then the crucial point in the race is reached. Some will have faltered long before this, but the entries that are out in front will be fighting for the last advantage.

And then next September when "Opening Day" is five months in the past some entry will come racing down the stretch as winner, but the interest will not have subsided.

The crowds during the year will be there. Further advancing proofs that baseball is the greatest of all American sports.

MORRIS IS RELEASED TO TERRE HAUTE CLUB

New Orleans, April 14.—The New Orleans Southern association club today released infielder Tommy Morris to the Terre Haute club of the Three-Eye league in order to be within the player limit when the summer campaign opens tomorrow. Morris is subject to recall.

Benny Karr To Pitch Opener

Nashville, Tenn., April 14.—(Special.)—The stage is all set for the greatest opening day the Nashville baseball club has ever experienced. Parades and festivities will abound throughout the day. Near 300 business houses have signed up to close their doors at 2 o'clock, to permit their employees to attend the opening game.

President John D. Martin will honor the ball club and Nashville fans with his presence for the first time on opening day.

Mayor Hilary Howe will be guardian of the official ball which he will hand to Governor Peay to be thrown out to Axel Lindstrom and the game will be on. Mayor Howe, Governor Austin Peay and President John D. Martin are to occupy an official stand built outside the directors' box near the Vol dugout.

The league president, the umpires and local and Cracker club officials will be the Governor Peay to be thrown out to Axel Lindstrom and the game will be on. Mayor Howe, Governor Austin Peay and President John D. Martin are to occupy an official stand built outside the directors' box near the Vol dugout.

The big parade will start at Eighth and Broad streets at 1:30 o'clock and will move through the uptown section. The players and officials will leave the public square and go to the ball park for preliminary workouts.

Big Parade. Four bands will be in the big parade. The Hume Fogg cadets and the local marines are also expected to take part. There will be a squadron of policemen to handle the crowds after the parade reaches the park. There will also be a 40-horse group of cavalry under Major Henry Dickerson. They will take part in the parade and will have police power in handling the crowds in the delirious game.

Pathe News photographers will take movies of the parade and also of the opening game to show at the local theaters.

The Crackers arrived in the city early Monday morning and took their last workout in the delirious game. The Vols are all set to go, there's no doubt about their line-up after there's no uncertainty about the players in their respective positions. There are no players to be dropped except in the pitching corps. Two men must go there and there may be another added if Hamilton can land the right man.

Practically every man on the club is in fine shape to start with the possible exception of Bert Griffith. The slugging outfielder is suffering with his feet, due to the hard ground and his late arrival in camp.

The only uncertainty in the Cracker line-up is Bill McCabe, who is suffering from a shoulder injury. Still he is expected to play.

In the workout Monday, however, Mueller chased flies in center while Frankie Zoeller tried out the dump and Paschal was in right.

Axel Lindstrom will oppose Benny Karr on the hilltop, with Wells certain to wear the windup for the Vols and either Laworth or Brock handling the slants of the Cracker curve.

The opening game will be called at 2:30 o'clock.

National League 'Umps' Assigned

New York, April 14.—Umpire assignments for the opening games in the National League tomorrow were announced today by President John A. Heydler as follows:

At Philadelphia, O'Day and McCormick.
At Cincinnati, Klem and Wilson.
At St. Louis, Moran, Pfliman and Powell.
At New York, Quigley, Hart and Scamney.

Monster Crowds To Pack Southern Parks Today

It will be merry afternoon for the turnstiles in four ball orchards of the Southern league today.

The baseball season is on and every fan in the eight cities of John D. Martin's loop is anxiously awaiting the time for the start.

The Crackers are acting as visitors to the Nashville Vols in their opener. "Stuffy" Stewart has his Birmingham Barons primed for their tilt with the Chattanooga club in the Tennessee city. The champion Pels from New Orleans journey to Mobile to pry off the season and Memphis will play in Little Rock.

Besides fighting for wins in their respective games today each town will be out to cop the attendance trophy, awarded by President Martin to the club having the largest paid attendance.

All of the cities today competing are in class "B," or the smaller group. Mobile was the winner of the trophy last year and reports indicate that 10,000 people will be parked into the field there today.

On Thursday, Atlanta, Birmingham, New Orleans and Memphis will hold their opening exercises. Atlanta has won the trophy for the past few years, but this year they are bound to be pushed by Birmingham and New Orleans.

The attendance last year totaled 15,064 paid admissions, but from all indications Atlanta will have to top these figures considerably for the trophy to be returned.

Birmingham is wild over the team that Stuffy Stewart has garnered together and the fans are sojourn behind the outfit. A new addition has been added to the stands there and they expect 16,000 people.

New Orleans, the city which has always been backward about baseball, is out to take the trophy from Atlanta and special arrangements are being made to attract a great crowd.

Expect 20,000.

But Atlanta is not idle. Twenty thousand is the goal set by the junior chamber of commerce, which has charge of all plans for opening day.

Governor Walker will pitch the first ball and is the guest of honor. But he will share honors with Mayor Walter A. Sims, who will declare a half holiday for the occasion. President Martin, of the Southern league, will be here.

The Elks' band and patrol will be on hand to amuse the crowd, while Bobby Jones, national open champion, may give a driving exhibition.

During the morning Johnny Brock, peppy little receiver, will attempt to catch a ball thrown from the top of the Fourth National bank. Johnny performed this stunt last year and made the catch after missing the first attempt.

This will be official opening of Spiller's field. All work on the magnificent new plant has been completed.

President Corbett asked that fans be informed that all seats for opening day will be reserved. Every person must have a check for each seat. There will be plenty of ushers on hand to handle the crowd.

The best seats in the park are now on sale at Stewart Murray's cigar stores exclusively. Fans are advised to purchase their tickets before coming to the park to avoid the rush.

MUSE

EASTER RIGHTNESS

Choice good taste for Easter—that's the thing! MUSE correctness "all the way"—from Muse Suit of English lines to crepe or foulard tie of blue (and perhaps a dash of red, for red is "good!")

A snap-brim hat—in pearl or tan (this is the keen note for Easter!)

The oxfords—tan! (of varying shades)—bright tans; or blacks that sparkle. Simplicity governs them—not much perforation. Stitching is the distinguishing note. And the toes are somewhat squarer.

"ON TO MUSE'S THIS MORNING"—IS THE CALL! FOR EASTER (DO YOU KNOW IT?) IS THIS SUNDAY!

GOLF ON THE BATTLEFIELDS

Ancient Game Usurps a Still More Ancient Pastime.

Devotees of the Royal and Ancient game will soon be swinging the driver and the masher over the historic fields of Yorktown, Virginia.

A three-million dollar resort hotel is in course of construction in the vicinity. As an adjunct to the hotel there will be two eighteen hole standard golf courses and a five hole practice course for the neophyte to try out his prowess on.

One of the long courses will extend directly across the battlefield. The third tee will be almost on the exact spot where Cornwallis surrendered his sword to Washington.

In the near distance as the player passes on in his round he will be able to see the old houses where the American and the British commanders had their headquarters during the siege. Moore House where the terms of the surrender were made, is still standing and will be right on the border of the course.

The ancient redoubts, gun pits and trenches are scattered over the territory and will be traversed by the new fairways, although it has been definitely stated that none of these historic excavations will be used for bunkers. Suitable tablets will be put up to identify these spots.

Imagine the plight of the club, accustomed to plow up greens and fairways with his masher!

Up comes a sudden chunk of sod and there in the hole a rusty old bayonet or perhaps, who knows, the gaping skull of some warrior of a bygone day.

In a year, the greens committee ought to have quite a valuable collection of relics.

BEER TRAINING FOR ENGLISH HORSE

Something "Over the Top" Brings 66 to 1 Shot in a Winner.

Beer—not near—was responsible for the remarkable victory of white Bud, a 66 to 1 shot, last night in the Lincoln Handicap in England, according to the mare's trainer.

Several weeks before the race, the mare, during a trial run, became excited. She clinched the bit and ran away. As a result she became so nervous that she refused to eat. After trying numerous foods on her, the trainer resorted to beer.

White Bud changed her mind about the hunger strike immediately and stuck to her new diet, taking two pints of the elixir every day for a period of three weeks before the race.

Then she ran, proving that there was considerable life in the old girl yet.

18.2 BALKLINE GOLF

Cue Ball in the 18th "Pocket."

An interesting golf problem occurred at Pinchurst last year when two opponents in a four ball match played their putts at the same time. The balls collided and one caromed into the hole.

The incident occurred on the home green with the opposing sides all even. Earnest efforts to determine the winners of the match in a manner satisfactory to all concerned, proved unavailing.

What would you do under the circumstances? That's just what they did do!

AERIAL GOLF

Bomb Sights Replace the "Driving Eye."

A novel aeroplane golf match was staged at the Olympia Country Club near Chicago as part of the celebration of the opening of the Club's fourth eighteen hole course which made the Olympia the largest golf club in the world.

The contest was staged between nine pros and nine amateurs, who played on the ground.

The pilots of the aeroplanes flew over the course and dropped balls as near the putting greens as possible. The opposing players then holed out from where the balls fell.

The Honorable Mr. Bing

BY HORATIO LANKFORD KING

Brad Sawyer talking through a concealed telephone, pantless and shirtless, in a room, aroused the hornet in him again. The dew of the recent night lay on his lips. This—this—what ever it was—was a brute's element of viciousness. For himself, he loathed it, loathed it, or all that it meant. He could have leapt at Sawyer like a tiger. Water was roaring in a bathtub; smell of violet water in the room; music in the curtains; whiskey glasses and decanter on the table—where had that come from? Sawyer was a pederast, perfumed, gluttonous, self-satisfied beast. He glowed with a glow, worm on a tropic night, something sulphurous about him, his thick shanks and exposed pasterns resembling a regular bloodhound's bifurcated quarters, the rear quarters.

"Say, send me up your best little gum-shoe sleuth," was shouting the barbarian into the receiver, after a regular bloodhound's trailer—hunt a woman. "Rup!" Shouting about, he grinned at his secretary.

"I always feel like a bear cat with a diploma in this burg, Bevy. Don't know how it is, but get the fever. A lot of the other fellows do, too—nice fellows at home; but they go wild up here. Cut loose, they do. But it isn't like it used to be when the joints were wide open. Now you gotta go at it like joinin' secret societies. An' the gold diggers is out to have straight. They're fairly overworked with the range and the law. I've been in the law, sometimes I get mad thinkin' of the injustice, and want to holler 'hurray for Mexico.' I always lose me in the jungle. Things so tight you're run down before you're wound up, if you know what I mean. Ain't easy any more! It ain't a free country any more, an' all the vitality has gone. Go down in the lobbies and see what you see. There it is, written in their faces—a sad story! No wonder there's so much social unrest. There ain't no rest—no rest—no man's country any more."

"You were telephoning for a sleuth?" asked Mr. Bing.

"Yes, pretty good now you've got to restrain me, Bevy—when that sleuth locates Lil. For if she's takin' up with another man, got a lover—Oh, my God!" He turned purple to his jaws, his hairy chest heaving exultantly. "I'll tear her limb from limb. I'll—she can't bring down shame on me like that. No, she can't! You know what Solomon says about a bad woman bein' a deep ditch for a good man. Well, they just ruin good men. But she can't ruin me. An' no other man can have her, either. She's mine. She's legally mine. The law says so," he bellowed, as if defying Mr. Bing to say that the law didn't say it. "Does or does not the law say it, Bingy?"

"Calm yourself," answered Mr. Bing. "The water's running over in there—and don't take any more of that whiskey. How did you get that whiskey, Sawyer?"

"A twenty-dollar bill got it," grinned Sawyer. "Money talks. Oh-ah-h, you don't know the ropes, do you, Bevy?"

Mr. Bing did not hesitate in his sudden resolution. Seizing the decanter by its long neck, he held it at arm's length out of a window and turned it upside down. It was spray by the time it reached the pavement, but nooses had lifted and sniffed the breeze, tantalized. The enraged Sawyer had almost pushed him overboard trying to save the whiskey.

"What's the matter with you?" he yelled fiendishly. "Let up on that!" "I am your restraining secretary, sir."

"You're a damn, bloomin' idiot!" howled Sawyer.

"Curb your tongue, my dear fellow."

"I'll have you blackjacked and hauled to the morgue," said Sawyer. "You're in New York."

"New York will know it," said Mr. Bing. "But I think I'll do now back in Atlanta. I'd have put a crimp in some people, too—Shylocks, Sawyers and Bronsons, down."

"Oh, you would?"

"Yes, I would," now shouted Mr. Bing. "Try me. Start something. Mr. Sawyer. There ain't going to be any whiskey in this family."

Sawyer spun about in a circle, his arms waving and cutting a grotesque figure.

"But I got it to calm my nerves, you idiot. You don't understand. I need stimulant. I have a fight ahead of me—a helluva fight. A terrible temptation eats at my better sense. I'll kill her sure. No, you don't—you can't understand. A dried-up fossil like you, who knows nothin' about life, love or what it means to have a heart-sufferer! For Lil's hooked into my ardent nature like a leech. I'm mad about her—Mad! I can't do without her. I love her!"

That was when Mr. Bing said things to shock his own ears.

"Mr. Sawyer, you'd make any healthy man sick with your maudlin sentiments. Shut up with your disgusting drivel. It's no way to talk to any woman. And you don't know if I have a heart or not, or if I have not suffered, never felt lonely. Pardon me, but you are a consummate ass."

"A what?"

"Consummate ass!" thundered Mr. Bing. "Now you want to hire a common, low down detective to pry into the movements of the woman who bears your name. It's not decent. It's damnable!"

"But how am I goin' to find her if I don't get a detective?" expostulated Sawyer. "This is New York. You must think your village where everybody knows everybody. An' you must think women are awfully tender. Well, let me tell you something, Lil's one kind that don't bat an eye at a detective. There ain't no detective that would hurt her feelin's. Give her a chance an' she'd make any New York pussy-foot go runnin' back to headquarters for help. You're a consummate ass, yourself, Bevy. To further believe himself of his indignation he gave vent to one of his loud wallops of cackling mirth. "Why, Lil's as hard-boiled as I am. It would take a sleuth night an' day to catch up with her!"

"But are you willing that a common detective should know of your private affairs—family affairs, that should be held sacred? Men like you mean about lost honor, but in your means you take the entire world into your confidence. Has pride vanished from the face of the earth?" thundered Mr. Bing.

"Look here, Bingy," came from Sawyer, earnestly. "You rave like that, an' these New York people will surely misunderstand you. Take it from me that'd be palaver they wouldn't savvy, and would call the bug-house wagon. But if I don't hire a sleuth, will you go out an' be the bound?"

"No! I wouldn't spy on a woman."

"Wouldn't you see any woman get her deserts? Would you give her ice cream when it would be the axe?"

"Well, between you an' me, you keep them sentiments to yourself, an' don't let ever woman hear you. If I don't get a detective, an' you won't do the shadow work, what'll I do then?"

"What did you come to do?"

"To get Lil back, of course."

"Even if it's not her wish to come back to you? She's not your private property even if she is your wife, and no law or preacher said she was your slave. Right or wrong, she believed she had cause for leaving you. And if she has a spark of womanhood, she will resist the last ditch. It is the evil and injustice of tyrannical human demands that fill the world with useless tragedies. The laws of this country may leave her in your power, but such a demonstration of force on your part deserves nothing but her scorn."

"But, Bevy, she wouldn't come back any other way."

"Then why wish her back? That convicts you as the criminal in the case. Would you want a woman back who despises, abhors you?"

"Why not? I like 'em scrappy. I don't like these tame kind. It'd be a helluva life if all women was tame."

"That's what I like, too—a little devil of a female," snarled Sawyer. "An' I didn't hire you to preach," he added with a protest of his jaw.

"An' I didn't hire you to preach," he added with a protest of his jaw.

"Silence!" rasped Mr. Bing. "I promise to do service to you, you say so. I will. But I confess I hardly knew what I was promising. And though I must not act as your detective, but only under certain conditions. You must not touch whiskey again, and you must turn over that pistol I saw in your handbag. Right this second, Sawyer."

He meant every word, and Sawyer knew it. They stood facing each other, Sawyer looking as if he was going to fight. And for the second time, his hands twitching to get at the throat above that white, respectable-looking collar, his little neat black bow tie beneath. In all his placid, easy-going days, Mr. Bing had never been confronted with such a situation; among his kind the thing would have been unthinkable. But now that it looked like a possibility, a stupendous courage came to his rescue. He did not retreat an inch, nor did his eyes waver. He stood immovable, as black and towering as Stone Mountain down in Georgia, that immense rock, the largest in the world, and hundreds of feet high from its base, which can be seen from most any office building window in the city of Atlanta, and soon to be a carved, living monument to the south.

Mr. Bing retreating not an inch, and towering there in the invulnerableness of his strong principles, Sawyer's anger ebbed to a mere cinder; he pretended an amused grin, more wolfish than his meant it to be. His thick stub fingers relaxed in their gripping tension, the animal in him cowering. He realized just in time he would be a fool to defy his secretary, for he saw, needed a keeper. If the tricky Mr. Bing should pull stakes and leave him, it would be a calamity for his indeed. Left alone, unguarded, he would do something rash and terrible. Yes—he might kill Lil; he would land in the penitentiary. And what then? What good then would it do to have money, he asked himself, if deprived of the freedom to live the life that most appealed to him? The sensuality in him shuddered at the thought, the mere possibility. "Oh, as he says for the present," the least in him counseled wisely. "Keep your liverty. We—you and I—do not want to land behind bars."

He wilted. The transformation surprised as it relieved Mr. Bing. But he understood. He was learning a great deal about this millionaire ward of his. He smiled grimly at the thought.

"All right, Bevy," was the law. "I'll obey as near as I can. But don't get so perved. You have restraint; I haven't. I never knew what restraint was. But I can make money, and you can't. We're even, and well; we need to put our forces together, eh?"

Mr. Bing made no reply—what did it matter? An egotist is an egotist, he will surrender only in his own way.

"Here's the gun—take it," went on Sawyer. And Mr. Bing took the gun. "What else, Bevy?"

"I will try to locate Mrs. Sawyer."

Peachtree Garden Club Will Visit Callaway Home in LaGrange

An invitation has been extended to the members of the Peachtree Garden club by Mrs. Fuller Callaway, of LaGrange, to a luncheon on Friday, April 18, at Hills and Dales, the handsome home of the hostess.

Wonderful Gardens.

The gardens surrounding Mrs. Callaway's home are perhaps among the oldest and most beautiful in the south. They are more like European gardens than American, and were planted by the late Mrs. B. C. Ferrell, wife of Judge Ferrell, beloved pioneer resident of LaGrange, in 1826. Mrs. Ferrell collected plants and seed from all over the world. Hedges of boxwood border the formal beds of exquisite flowers, and at present the wisteria and yellow hickory trees are in full bloom forming a picture of marvelous loveliness.

Built in Terraces.

The gardens are built in terraces, each expressing an original idea of Mrs. Ferrell's and bearing a suitable name. An interesting story is told about a Masonic pin, planted in boxwood, which was the chief feature of the first terrace at the summit of the hill on which the Callaway home stands. During the days of the sixties when the federal army invaded Georgia, a blue-uniformed captain by the name of LaGrange requisitioned the Ferrell home for himself and his company. In passing through the gardens, Mrs. Ferrell, herself a member of the order of Eastern Star, pointed out the emblem in boxwood, giving the sign of recognition to the captain, who immediately placed a guard about the place, thus allowing the beautiful gardens to remain unimpaired through the period of destruction.

The second terrace, Mrs. Ferrell called "Sentinel avenue," from a number of cedars which stand guard and have grown to great height. The variety is an imported one which is seldom seen in this country. The third terrace is "Bower avenue," so-called because of the great bowers of boxwood which form summer houses at the end of the winding, hedged walks.

Labyrinth Terrace.

The fourth terrace is called "Labyrinth," from the maze of foreign plants and shrubs which Mrs. Ferrell collected from almost every country in the world. Stately magnolias outline the fifth avenue which leads to the great wrought iron gates of the estate. Below the terraces is a box, for the spot which Mrs. Ferrell called the valley. In this place she planted countless annuals which still render a riot of bloom throughout each spring.

and summer. Large and modern greenhouses are another interesting feature of the gardens. These have supplanted the ones maintained by the original owner and they contain many choice and very rare plants.

Original Plans.

The gardens stand today as they did when planted by the original owner, Mr. and Mrs. Callaway deciding, when planning their handsome home, that the surroundings could not be improved upon by modern landscape architecture.

The members of the Peachtree Garden club will motor to LaGrange upon this occasion and will spend several pleasant hours in the gardens of Hills and Dales.

Miss Johnson Gives Bridge-Tea.

Miss Antoinette Johnson entertained at bridge-Tea Saturday afternoon at her home on Oakdale road in compliment to Mrs. Oscar Phillips, Jr., of Chattanooga.

The living room where the guests were seated was elaborately decorated with spring flowers.

Twenty-four guests were entertained and prizes given for high and low score. A special guest prize was given Mrs. Phillips.

Mrs. Lawton C. Harris Entertained at Bridge.

Mrs. Lawton C. Harris entertained at bridge at her home in West End Saturday afternoon. The home was decorated with pink carnations, jonquils and varicolored hyacinths and tulips. The Easter idea was carried out in detail.

The guests included Mrs. L. R. Denney, Mrs. Ben Smith, Miss Maude Mayers, Mrs. Sam Milton, Miss Frances Flynn, Miss Marie Kane, Miss Faith McDaniel, Mrs. Wallace Rhodes, Miss Kuss, Miss Julia Hodges, Miss Nisbet, Miss Elizabeth Simmons and Mrs. Harris.

Mrs. M. L. Grice Weds John E. Gardner.

A marriage entering the interest of a large circle of friends in Atlanta and Washington, Ga., was that of Mrs. Minnie Louise Grice and John Edwin Gardner, which was quietly solemnized Saturday evening, April 12, at the home of Rev. Robert H. Landin, on East Pine street.

Mr. and Mrs. Gardner will reside in Washington.

Mrs. Dunbar Will Honor Mrs. Trimpi

Tech Glee Club Will Appear In Concert Saturday Evening

The Georgia Tech Glee and Mandolin club will make its annual appearance before its Atlanta friends next Saturday evening, April 19. On account of the limited seating capacity at the auditoriums where the performances have been held for the past two years, many friends of the club have been unable to get tickets or have been forced to sit in undesirable seats. To remedy this, the Atlanta theater has been engaged for this year's performance.

At the beginning of the present season of the club a program was promised that would be entirely different from the regular performances of other southern glee clubs. According to the newspaper notices about the club from the cities in which it has played, this promise has been kept throughout the program. The heavy male choruses, imitation minstrels and slapstick comedy acts have been entirely eliminated. In their place will be found scenes built around the latest song hits, and special comedy acts and new songs that have been obtained direct from New York producers. Taken as a whole, the program is so diversified that it embraces practically every phase of a regular vaudeville performance, and is so arranged that it at no time becomes tiresome, although it lasts almost three hours. The show might well be called a musical revue, and has been given this name in several cities in which it has been given.

The club comes to Atlanta after a very successful road trip, in which Macon, Savannah, Valdosta, Americus, Griffin and Jacksonville, Fla., were visited. The press reports from all these cities were enthusiastic in their praise of the Tech men. The Atlanta performance is the climax of the season.

The cast of the Atlanta performance will include over 50 men. There are separate pit and jazz orchestras, and a mandolin club of over 15 pieces. The pit orchestra is under the direction of Frank Roman, well known Atlanta musician, who was for many years leader of a popular motion picture orchestra here. Under his direction this orchestra has become one of the best of its kind ever seen here. The jazz orchestra is under the direction of Bishop Foreman, a Tech student, who has played in professional orchestras during the summer for several years. He has perfected a dance orchestra which will rival any of the professional ones of the city.

Tickets for the Atlanta performance will be placed on sale within the next few days; mail orders are being filled now through the Atlanta theater.

Mrs. Bayley Teaches Girls To Sew at Home for Friendless

Mrs. Dwight Bayley and five of the little girls who are members of her sewing class at the Home for the Friendless.

Mrs. Dwight Bayley has been chairman of the cutting committee, which cuts all of the clothes and makes all the garments worn by the older girls at the Home for the Friendless. She has been assisted by Mrs. S. S. Benson, and every Monday afternoon Mrs. Bayley calls a happy and interested group together and teaches these little girls how to sew.

In talking with her and asking her just what made her realize the importance of organizing this sewing class she said:

"After many trips to the home, I became convinced that the one thing most needed was some one to teach these little girls to sew. I have always felt that there is no investment which pays so large a dividend as the investment made in young people, to give them the equipment and training which enables them to meet life fairly and independently. As a growing child, I had no mother and no training along domestic lines. When my first baby came, I had neither money to buy, nor knowledge to make her little clothes, and it was only after many hard weary hours of work and many hopeless disappointments that I finally became independent of dressmakers and 'ready mades.' After what it has meant to me to be taught this opportunity to spare these girls that struggle makes a mighty appeal to me.

No Funds Available.

"Mrs. Bossemer, my splendid helper, immediately agreed to assist me. We organized a class of 20 little girls from seven to 13 years of age. A very few of them had had some teaching, but most of them did not even know how to properly tie a knot in the thread. So our work had to be graded from the beginning. We were told at the outset that there were no funds available from any source, so this was and is our big problem for we must have scissors, needles, thimbles and materials.

"One very generous friend gave 12 pairs of good scissors, with which we have been getting along, though each child should have a pair of her own. Do you ever lose your needle? Well, you should see them disappear on a school-room floor with 20 little untrained hands.

"We obtained some advertising thimbles," continued Mrs. Bayley, "most of which are so large that they will not stay on the little fingers, but we never hear a complaint. We always are in need of donations in the way of materials, thread and other equipment necessary for sewing. Just now we would greatly appreciate anything given to our sewing class.

"When we arrive, each Monday afternoon, we are greeted like honey pots swarmed by a drove of bees. Each girl desires our undivided attention, and we wish we might give it to her as they are all so bright and eager to learn. One wants to make a dress for herself, another a bib for her baby brother, another a gift for some friend who has been 'so good' to her, and so on.

Teaching the Child.

"In order to determine just what each could do, we began on bibs, which were then much needed in the nursery and very soon turned in 20 well-made little apron bibs. Then we took up mending, and isn't it surprising how many different stitches are required in doing nice mending? If you don't know it, try teaching some child. Then they all wanted cretonne pockets to hang on their locker doors to keep their smaller belongings in. So we made them with special pockets for all sorts of things. Now they are learning to darn stockings, a prize to be given for the best darn, and they think it is fun to make a smooth, soft, well-woven darn. They do not want to have to darn too long though, while they are waiting for some generous souls to help their already overtaxed teachers with funds or materials. We want to hold their interest and want them to love to sew. In order to do this we must make pretty little things like other girls have.

In the Sewing Class.

"In the home, of necessity, they have to provide them with the heavier, more durable materials, but, in our sewing class, we want to make dainty dresses, petticoats, teddies, etc., and some of the girls want to make nice bloomers. One child is now hem-stitching a towel to give her friend. Another dear little bit of a girl, who did not even know how to hold her needle at first, has made wonderful progress and you should see her locker pocket and the pretty, even, embroidery stitches with which she has covered her seams. She said to me, 'Mrs. Bayley, you don't know how glad I am that I am going to learn to sew for when I grow up I am going to keep house for my papa and little brother and then I can make them some pretty shirts.'

"Do you wonder," concluded Mrs. Bayley, "we enjoy doing it and are tempted to do as we have had to do—deny ourselves and our own children some things in order to supply materials for these lovely little ambitious children who are so anxious to learn to help themselves?"

Mrs. Bayley is a very accomplished, talented and attractive young woman. She is the contralto soloist of the Central Congregational church and possesses a rich and exquisitely beautiful voice. She is deeply interested in this work at the Home for the Friendless and will continue to teach sewing to her class as long as she can provide the materials.

Reports Made in Departmental Work Of Y. W. C. A.

The work of the Young Women's Christian association in three departments constituted the substance of the three outstanding reports that were made at the monthly meeting of the directors Monday at the association headquarters, Peachtree Arcade.

Mrs. Archibald H. Davis, president, presided.

The three reports covered were employment, the educational classes and the clubs that are organized for girls who are employed in business offices and industrial centers.

Miss Elizabeth Page Tucker, in outlining the work of the Y. W. C. A. employment bureau that is conducted in the chamber of commerce as a department of the Consolidated Free Employment service, said that employers had called on her office for 123 employees; 233 girls and women had been sent out to positions and 117 had been placed. A point made in the report was that the Y. W. C. A. free of charge, aids a girl in finding a place to live and in securing a position. It was shown that employers are given free service; also home-owners who list their rooms with the "Y" for rent or for board.

The report showing the work for young women in business offices and industrial centers showed an enrollment for March of ten clubs with a membership of 290.

The report of the Y. W. C. A. industrial department was made in brief by Miss Isabelle Goss, director of the business and industrial girls' department, as follows: "The past three months of this year have been most encouraging in the industrial department, five new clubs have been organized and many parties given at the association to interest new girls." Miss Goss showed that where the department has clubs in factories

Virginia Futrelle Warmly Received In Recital at Club

Before a distinguished audience, Virginia Futrelle, of Atlanta, made her bow in concert at the Atlanta Woman's club auditorium Sunday afternoon. The Atlanta Woman's club presented her in an invitation concert to Atlanta. The response was evidenced by the huge audience assembled to hear this young Atlanta singer.

Colonel W. L. Pool, president of the Atlanta Musical Festival association, after being presented by Mrs. Abner Richardson, president of the Atlanta Woman's club, presented the young singer.

It was a critical and discerning audience as well as a brilliant one, and although decidedly friendly to the young singer and her initial effort in this field of work, the spontaneous and enthusiastic applause after each song evidenced a surprise on the part of the audience that was delightful and added much to the singer's confidence in her later numbers.

After the concert an reception was held in the banquet hall. Mrs. William Moore, chairman of the hospital committee, had the reception in charge.

At the reception Colonel W. L. Pool expressed himself as most enthusiastic over the operatic prospects of this Atlanta girl.

The different groups have meetings once a week at the Y. W. C. A., where they are markedly interested in music and recreation. She also stated that the industrial self-governing clubs decide upon their own program whether social, educational or recreational.

One work of the department that Miss Goss stressed was in making noon-day visits to factories where social contacts are being made with the girls.

AFTER A TEST OF 26 YEARS

Illinois Woman Tells of the Good Results She Has Obtained from Her Consistent Use of Cardui.

St. Joseph, Ill.—"I have used Cardui at intervals for 26 years," recently said Mrs. Asa G. Ollis, of St. Joseph. "Shortly after my marriage, I had my first course of this splendid medicine. My... were irregular and I suffered with cramps and a... pain in my side and back. I took Cardui and it helped me. I could see I was better after my first bottle."

"I used Cardui for weakness and nervous troubles before and after child-birth. It is a splendid tonic and, after two or three bottles, I would be strengthened."

"I am the mother of eleven children, seven girls and four boys. I don't believe I would ever have been able to do for them as I have, had I not found a good tonic that helped my nerves, gave me an appetite and strength. I feel like I couldn't have gotten along without it. I used it for change and got along real well."

Twenty-six years' use, when needed—Mrs. Ollis certainly should know what she is talking about after having put Cardui to such a long test. One of Cardui's chief ingredients, however, has been tested by use and recommended by medical authorities in the treatment of female troubles for over six hundred years.

Have you tried it?

The resolution asks that councilmen support Farrell for the vacancy caused recently by resignation of Wiley Moore, who gave up the place to become a candidate for the vacancy in council resulting from the death of the late Councilman Arthur Dyer.

Mr. Farrell was notified of the action, and agreed to accept the post provided his business affairs would permit.

J. H. Hopkins was elected secretary and Mrs. F. A. Coursey presided.

NO TIME FOR YALE TOOK COLLEGE HOME SAYS H. C. WITWER

LOS ANGELES, CAL., April 10.—Interviewed here today, the popular short story writer, H. C. Witwer, confessed that he has acquired a college education without going to any college. In response to a query concerning the classical literary flavor of the opening paragraphs and titles of his current stories in Collier's and in Cosmopolitan Magazine, Witwer produced a letter he had just written to a friend in New York.

"I most assuredly have a Five-Foot Shelf," he wrote, "and if you don't think I use it constantly for inspiration, reference and mental calisthenics, you should see the well-thumbed pages.

"There is no excuse for anyone missing a college education when these books are available."

In response to further inquiries, Witwer said that he has been successively a newsboy, soda jerk, circus publicity writer, sports editor, and short story writer. "I have never had time to be an inmate of dear old Yale," he added, "but a constant inmate of my home has been

WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

Read How Mrs. Walsh Was Helped by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mannington, W. Virginia. "I took the Vegetable Compound when having the turn of life. I had been sick for seven years. I would get a little better, then I broke down again. It would be hard for me to describe how I felt. I was a perfect wreck. I suffered with a pain in my left side, then I would have numb spells. I could have no flash, then I would have weak spells. I was so weak I could think I couldn't ever get a real ready. My work was a burden on me. I was not able to do my housework half of the time. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it gave me strength and health. The hot flashes left me and I got better of the numb spells. That summer I could do my housework and worked the garden a good bit. I tell all the women what your wonderful medicine did for me, and will always commend it. I am known to all my neighbors, and you can publish my statement because it is true." Mrs. JOHN W. WALSH, R. ## CHAPTER XIV.

Mrs. Vale's New Friend.

Suzanne stood in the doorway as Lolita and Dick left. They were a good looking pair of youngsters, she reflected—if only Lolita weren't a dancer, everything would be all right. Dick was young, but he'd be out of college in a few months, now, and then he and the girl could be married. "I'm becoming an old matchmaker, when I'm nothing more than a bride myself," she laughed, as she turned to her guests again. "But what a relief it would be to feel that everything was going to be all right where they're concerned. Oh, well—I'll explain to Geoff how I happened to have the girl here, the minute he gets home." One more thing to explain to Geoff!

As she crossed the hall, Mrs. Vale approached, both hands out. "I'm going home, dear," she murmured, with a smile that went no further than her lips; her eyes were almost hostile. "And what do you think—your nice army officer is going to take me, since we live in the same apartment house. Isn't that sweet of him?" She beamed up at Duncan Hale, who did not seem to share her enthusiasm. "I must think you, Suzanne, for making such a nice new friend for me."

Suzanne hadn't the faintest idea what she was replying; she was facing the prospect of Duncan's knowing Mrs. Vale well enough to talk freely with her. He had good sense, she reflected, as they stood together; he was a gentleman, and not likely to make confidence that should not be made. And yet, Mrs. Vale was a clever woman. She would try to find out just how well he knew Suzanne. What if he should, in an unguarded moment, tell her the truth?

"I should have kept them apart," Suzanne told herself, angrily. "When she asked if she might come over here this evening, I should have known that it wasn't because she was lonely that she wanted to come. I'm a fool. And if everything goes wrong, it will be my own fault."

Her mind raced on wildly. Duncan had all the letters she had written him when they were engaged; he had refused to return them, saying that they represented the most precious period of his life. Mrs. Vale was unscrupulous; if she learned that it was Duncan Hale with whom Suzanne had mother was rich and rare. But don't you worry; everybody knows that Mrs. Haynes cannot be believed. Tomorrow—One More Rebuke. (Copyright, 1924, for The Constitution.)

BY EDNA KENT FORBES

ANSWERED LETTERS.
High School Junior—I agree with your mother. A girl of 15 should continue to wear her hair hanging and not do it up in those unbefitting coils, merely because the other girls in her class have adopted this arrangement of dressing their hair.
A Y.—A red nose may usually be traced to imperfect elimination, and even if you do not recognize such a condition, it may exist. Try drinking at least eight glasses of water daily and eat fewer rich foods.

Mrs. R. R.—For a skin as dry as yours, use an olive oil soap, such as the best quality of castile. I cannot suggest the names of any creams, but I will be glad to send you a good cream formula if you wish to make it yourself. A pure rice powder would suit your skin. You can either buy it tinted or tint it yourself with a little carmine, suiting the shade to that of your skin.
Interested Reader.—When the pores are as much enlarged as yours, it will take a long time and much care to refine the texture of the skin. One thing to do is to close the pores after every cleansing, either by dashing very cold water over the skin, or by an ice rub. In your special treatments use an astringent made from one part white of egg to six parts water. Several times each week, in last, rinse after bathing face and throat, and take a full warm bath every day. This treatment will relieve the pores of the complexion.
Hazel.—Your scalp troubles may easily result from a sluggish condition of your system. Stop using the salve and try a tonic in which there is an alcoholic base. Build up your general health and form the habit of drinking plenty of water between meals.

Carl W.—Have your eyes examined to see if you are not in need of glasses. The eyestrain you are having is causing the lines, and with relief these will be lessened.
Massage a nourishing cream or olive oil into the lines on your neck and around the eyes. Very cold or very hot wet compresses laid over the eyelids will also give temporary relief when the eyes are aching from strain or from some condition of the system with which they are in sympathy.
Miss F. G.—A girl of 13 years, bright four feet nine and a half inches would be normal weight from 90 to 95 pounds.
Gloria L. T.—When lines appear in the skin of young people, it merely indicates they are a bit run down; and they will always disappear if the system is built up. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope and I will have the eyelash formula mailed you as it cannot be printed at this time. There is no way to make the line thinner.
Tomorrow—Chapped Lips.

On the average, Hebrew women are said to live longer than those of any other race.

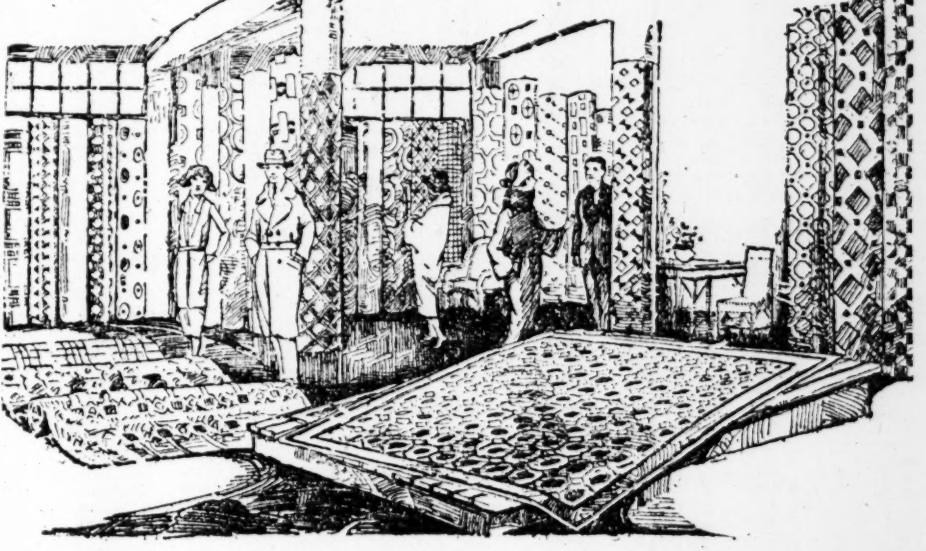

More than 48 per cent of the total stockholders of the Pennsylvania railroad are women.

Used Kellogg's Bran 2 months—constipation gone after suffering 3 years

Three years of suffering with constipation. What happiness was his when Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, restored his health. But read his letter.
"Dear Sirs:—This is what I think of your krumbled bran. I would not be without it for anything in the world. For three years I used all kinds of medicines for constipation, and only got temporary relief. I was advised by a doctor to use Kellogg's Bran, and since I began using it I don't have to take pills or anything else. I have used it two months, and my constipation has left me. I feel better, now than I have for three years."
(The original of this letter is on file at the Kellogg Company, Battle Creek, Mich.)
Kellogg's Bran brings results because it is ALL bran. You can't fight constipation with halfway measure—with bran which are only part bran. It takes ALL bran to be 100 per cent effective.

Because Kellogg's Bran is ALL bran it sweeps, cleans and purifies the intestine. It acts naturally—just as nature acts. It stimulates the intestine and makes it function regularly. It is guaranteed to bring results, or your grocer will refund your money.
Kellogg's Bran has a delicious nut-like flavor. Quite different from ordinary, unpalatable bran. You will like it as a cereal, sprinkled on other cereals, cooked with hot cereals, or in the recipes given on every package.
Eat two tablespoonsful of Kellogg's Bran every day—in chronic cases, with every meal. Made in Battle Creek. Sold by all grocers.—(adv.)
